At Fairgrounds shop

Good Hope area blacksmith shoes 150 horses monthly

Roger Dunton in fairgrounds shop

By GEOFF MAVIS
Record-Herald Staff Writer
Over the years, the Fayette County Fairground racetrack has felt the thunder of many a horse's hoof. In turn, the half-mile track exacts its revenge on the equestrian foot by steadily wearing away any protective covering that has been attached. For more than a decade, however, a blacksmith has provided the necessary shoes that keep the horses trotting and pacing day in and day out.

Located near the horse barns on the Fayette County Fairgrounds stands the shop of Roger Dunton, 2368 Ohio 753-S, a blacksmith for the past 19 years, and resident of Fayette County since 1964. It is within this shop that approximately 150 horses are regularly shod each month by Dunton.

Having been around horses all his life, Dunton began apprenticeship in Delaware with the veteran blacksmith, Johnny Wilson. After 18 months training, he started his own business. Later, while residing in Urbana he practiced his profession at Scioto Downs in Columbus during the racing season.

Dunton was notified of the need for a blacksmith at the Fayette County Fairgrounds during racing events. He accepted the post, and then found business so great even in the off months that he has remained here ever since.

Though he does shoe quarter horses, Dunton's main line of work centers around standard breeds - trotters and pacers. Since

Showdown looms on tax measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and Congress are girding for a veto battle that will determine whether Americans find their income taxes increased by about 8 per cent on the first day of 1976.

A bipartisan group of senators met with the President late Thursday to discuss differences on legislation to extend last year's tax cuts into the new year, but the session ended in a deadlock. Sen. Russell Long, D-La., told reporters after the meeting with Ford, "We were unable to agree on anything."

Ford told the lawmakers he will veto the tax cut measure if it is sent to him without an attached spending ceiling of $395 billion for the next fiscal year.

If Ford vetoes the tax cuts and if his veto is upheld, most American workers will face an automatic tax increase on Jan. 1. The tax cuts in effect this year expire on Dec. 31 unless extended by Congress.

James T. Lynn, director of the Office of Management and Budget, told reporters after the Thursday meeting that the President had informed the senators that he "respectfully disagrees" with their efforts to continue tax increases without placing the limit on federal spending and that Ford told them "we'll have to let the system work."

"The President made it very clear that without an expenditure ceiling he will veto the proposal put forth by the Finance Committee," Lynn said.

Ford has said he believes Congress will not override his veto. Congressional Democratic leaders predict "it will be close."

Long said a tax bill is expected to clear Congress early next week and it should be on the President's desk late in the week. Asked about a Ford veto, Long replied, "We'll try to override and we may or may not. Then we'll see what happens after that."

Of the four senators at the White House meeting, only Carl Curtis, R-Neb., supported the President's position. He predicted that the House, at least, would sustain a Ford veto.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., told reporters, "We're not all that far apart," but he contended Ford is asking Congress to violate procedures prescribed by the new congressional budget law. Under that law, Congress won't consider spending for fiscal 1977 until next spring.

"We're being asked to make spending ceiling decisions that could affect millions of Americans in 1977," Long said. "Maybe we can do that six months from now."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the Budget Committee, agreed that by May Congress might be able to tie a spending lid to the taxcut, but "right now, we do not have details on his $28-billion proposed tax cut. We'll get it in January with his budget message and we told him we'd look at the figures then."

The congressional tax cut bill, in its final form, is expected to include a six-month extension of the tax cut adopted last Jan. 1 as an anti-recession measure. Both the bill passed by the House and the measure expected to win Senate approval next week lack spending ceilings.

Dump search set for Hoffa's body

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Federal investigators are readying equipment to dig up a Jersey City refuse dump in a search for the body of an underworld figure and, sources say, the body of former Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa.

Officials refused to say, however, when the excavation would begin at the 60-acre site known as Moscato's Dump, a landfill that has not been used for years.

Robert C. Stewart, a member of the U.S. Organized Crime Strike Force, said Thursday, "Within the past 24 hours the government has received information from an informant whose information has proved reliable in the past, which should enable the government to focus attention upon a more precise and limited area of the dump."

"The government has surveyed the area and has undertaken to obtain the equipment necessary to conduct the search," Stewart said in an affidavit used to obtain an extension of a search warrant granted last week. "The logistical problems are however, exceedingly formidable and additional time is needed to conduct the search."

The original search warrant was to expire today.

Sources said the informant who supplied the information was a convicted member of organized crime who may be trying to trade information about Hoffa in return for leniency in an unrelated case.

He is currently under protective custody by federal marshals, and federal officials have refused to make any public comment about him.

The warrant does not name Hoffa as the object of the search. It directs the FBI to find the body of a reputed loan shark named Armand "Coke" Faugno, who disappeared three years ago after he was indicted on counterfeiting charges. However, sources said the informant provided information related to Hoffa's burial.

Officials theorized that solving the disappearance of Faugno could provide leads in the Hoffa case.

Federal sources said the witness may provide information, unrelated to Hoffa, that could be used to put pressure on three men under investigation by a grand jury in Detroit in

Banker's body found near Newark

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — The FBI agents are gone now.

Only the shock and sorrow linger in the Grosse Pointe, Mich., home of James Crawford Sr. and his wife, Theresa, Scottish immigrants who came to this country in 1957 when their son, James, was only seven years old.

For six days, the FBI and the Crawford family anxiously awaited word on the fate of their son, now 25, who was kidnapped a week ago as he arrived for work at a branch of the National Bank of Detroit, where he was an assistant manager.

The vigil ended Thursday when Crawford's body was found wearing a blood-streaked shirt and tan trousers in a wooded clump along a backwoods road 12 miles from this quiet, Christmas decorated town in central Ohio.

Three men and a woman have been arrested in the case.

The FBI relayed the news to Tom Edgar, a banker and a friend of the family's from their days together in Scotland. It was left to Edgar and a son-in-law of the Crawfords to tell them.

Later, Mrs. Crawford answered the telephone when a reporter called. She was unable to speak, stricken with emotion. Edgar said the Crawfords, both in their early 50s, were under heavy sedation under doctor's orders.

"They are in a state of shock and cannot totally comprehend what happened to them," said Edgar. "I suppose it was God's will. I can't understand it and neither can the family."

Dr. George A. Gressle, the Licking

County, Ohio, coroner, said young Crawford bled to death from more than 20 knife wounds in the chest, back, neck and the side of his head. He said Crawford died sometime after 9 p.m. Tuesday after apparently "fighting desperately" for his life.

Gressle said "defense wounds" on his left hand indicated Crawford had tried to wrest the narrow bladed, sharp pointed knife from his assailant. He also suffered a right black eye and Gressle said he assumed he was punched with a fist.

Sheriff Max Marston said Crawford was stabbed in the desolated wooded area, within three miles of a rented home where he was held hostage, but despite his wounds managed to stagger up a road for nearly a quarter of a mile apparently seeking help before he collapsed and died. An abandoned station wagon stolen from a Detroit suburb and believed used in the kidnap plot was found along the roadway nearby.

FBI agents had traced the auto to the house, which authorities said had been rented by one of the three men arrested, John S. Garsides, 39, a former resident of Columbus, Ohio. The agents had the house under surveillance and trailed Garsides and William Nabozny 38, of Dearborn, Mich.

Garsides, Nabozny and Sharon Scheurell, 24, of Columbus, were arrested together Wednesday as they drove toward Indiana on Interstate 70 about 20 miles west of Dayton. The third man accused in the case, Chester S. Wysocki, 36, of Dearborn, was arrested in the Detroit suburb of Farmington.

The three men have been charged by federal authorities with conspiracy to commit bank larceny through use of a hostage. The woman, described by authorities as the common-law wife of Garsides, has been charged with being an accessory after the fact. All are being held on bonds ranging from $100,000 to $500,000 pending further hearings on the federal charges.

Sheriff Marston said in Newark that murder charges would be filed by his office but that he didn't know against whom or when. He said he would have to confer with the FBI.

Sources close to the investigation said that Miss Scheurell, while not charged with abduction, relayed coded messages from Garsides while he was in Detroit to Nabozny who allegedly was holding Crawford in the rented house near Newark. These sources indicated that she later cooperated with the FBI, and gave them an idea where they could locate Crawford's body.

"But for her, we still might be looking for the body," said one source. Detroit police said all three men had previous criminal records ranging from armed robbery to attempted

Coffee Break . .

WASHINGTON C.H. Postmaster Richard Witherspoon urges immediate mailing of all Christmas cards and parcels and encourages customers to help expedite delivery by using ZIP codes.

The suggested deadline to give the maximum probability of before Christmas delivery has passed. "Of course all parcels will be accepted for mailing and we'll make every effort to deliver them before Christmas," Witherspoon said.

All greeting cards should be mailed immediately in order to insure Christmas delivery, especially those for out-of-state destinations.

ONE OF the brand new Washington C.H. police cruisers has officially been broken in and broken into, as of Friday morning.

One of the police officers locked himself out of the cruiser with the keys in the cruiser but with the aid of a coathanger was able to rectify the situation. "The officer was quoted as saying, 'It was one of them der new fangled gadgets that got the better of me - those electronic door locks! I was inside cleaning the windshield when I must have bumped the door lock button, so when I closed the door it locked' . . . A likely story. . .

Energy bill would curb prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb, who earlier expressed doubts that a congressional energy plan would mean lower fuel prices, now says the bill should save consumers about 2.5 cents a gallon on fuel oil and gasoline.

Although the Democratic-sponsored plan would temporarily run counter to President Ford's own energy program, he has not said whether he will veto it. Zarb told Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., in a letter that while the congressional plan's price cuts might not be felt immediately, "prices will be less in future months than they otherwise would have been under a continuation of the present program" of price controls.

Portions of the Dec. 6 letter from Zarb were printed in a conference committee report on the compromise energy bill, on which a final vote in the House and Senate will come next week. The letter was released Thursday.

Congressional economists say the bill could mean a temporary saving of 3.5 cents per gallon on gasoline or home-heating oil, and they predict lower prices may be felt as soon as the bill becomes law — if it does.

Zarb has urged Ford to sign the bill as the best energy plan he can get from Congress this year, but conservative lawmakers adamantly oppose it on grounds it would increase dependence on foreign oil.

While the conferees were writing the compromise bill, Zarb said publicly he would be surprised if the plan resulted in a rollback of even one cent per gallon.

But in the letter to Jackson, Zarb wrote:

"Regardless of the rate at which the cost reductions flow through in lower prices to consumers, the conferees may rest assured that their actions, if enacted by the Congress and signed by the President, should result in a savings to consumers of about 2.5 cents per gallon on petroleum products."

Democrats predict Ford will have to sign the bill, with its temporarily lower fuel prices, or jeopardize his chances in the nation's first presidential primaries of 1976. Those tests are scheduled in 2½ months in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, wintry states heavily dependent upon oil for heating.

The compromise bill, worked out during a 16-day conference, would retain controls on oil prices through March 1979. At the start of the program, the average price of U.S. domestic oil, now about $10.50 a barrel, would be rolled back to $7.66.

The biggest share of the rollback would be accomplished by removing the $2-per-barrel tariff that Ford imposed earlier this year on all imported oil and on that portion of U.S. production that is not subject to price controls.

During the 40-month period, the average price could rise by as much as 10 per cent a year, returning to today's levels by mid-1977.

The president could allow higher prices for hard-to-produce oil, such as that from very deep wells or from above the Arctic Circle, so long as the price of easy-to-get oil was cut to maintain the average.

Cincy man wins lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bob Jennings, a 57-year-old railroad machinist, sat at home in Cincinnati and watched his brother, Jim, appear in his place on the Ohio lottery's big Thursday night show.

"He did real good," said Bob Jennings, after brother Jim won $1,000 a month for life standing in for him.

"He was very calm about it. Much more so than I would have been," the older brother said in a telephone interview from his home.

Jim, 42, is a railroad clerk. Both brothers work for the Chessie System and live with a sister, Blanche.

Bob Jennings said he doesn't know what he'll do with the money, but said it won't change his way of life. He said he has worked for the railroad for 38 years and has three years to go until retirement.

Why didn't Bob come to Cleveland for the televised drawing?

"He just didn't want to," said brother Jim. Bob agreed.

The $10,000 prize went to Paul Davis of Berea. Other winners included Frank McNamara of Cleveland, $7,500; Wanda Ciders, Columbus, $5,000;

Harry Kesserling Sr., Marietta, $4,000; Vern Simpson, Lebanon, $3,000; Dale Johnson, Antwerp, $2,000, and Lester Cavanaugh, Cincinnati, $1,000.

Weekly numbers drawn Thursday night were:

Buckeye 1,000: 686, 0178, 12607, 665702.

Snowflake: 78 66 15 50.
Super Santa: 2942, 20051, 436381.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Hazel Rankin

Friends here have learned of the death of Mrs. Hazel Rankin, 81, of Windham, formerly of Octa.

Mrs. Rankin's husband, Earl F. Rankin, died in June, 1975. She was a member of the Windham United Methodist Church, and have moved to Windham six years ago. Her parents were the late Charles and Ida Marchant Paine.

She is survived by a son, Howard P. of Postoria; one daughter, Mrs. Jack (Pauline) Ellet of Windham; seven grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Florence Fenstermaker of Newton Falls.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Mallory Memorial Home, Garrettsville, with the Rev. Gerald Kalb officiating. Burial will be made in Windham Township Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Sarah Jones

GREENFIELD — Mrs. Sarah Marie Jones, 44, Rt. 3, Greenfield, died at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in Riverside Hospital, Columbus.

Born in Highland County, Mrs. Jones was a member of the Centerfield Friends Church.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Edith Sins, and Miss Betty Chain and Mrs. William (Violet) Gregory of Greenfield; two brothers, Floyd Jones, Rt. 2, Leesburg, and John Jones of Lewisville, Tex., and one grand-daughter.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Murray Funeral Home, Greenfield, with the Rev. Frank Dunn officiating. Burial will follow in Bridges Cemetery, near Leesburg.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Saturday.

Joseph Baird

GREENFIELD — Services for Joseph Baird, 81, of 221 McClain Ave., Greenfield, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Murray Funeral Home, Greenfield, with the Rev. Charles Reed officiating.

Mr. Baird, a World War I U.S. Army veteran, died at noon Thursday in Greenfield Municipal Hospital. He was born in Holidaysburg, Pa.

He is survived by his wife, the former Grace Brewer; two daughters, Mrs. James (Mary) McClimans of Spanaway, Wash., and Mrs. Jack (Joan) Foreman of San Diego, Calif.; three sons, Charles of Tacoma, Wash., Lyle of Littleton, Colo. and Donald of Hillsboro; 12 grandchildren; and two brothers, Jerry of New Philadelphia, and James of Poland, Ohio.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Friday. Burial will be in Mennetone Cemetery Medway.

CRYSTAL D. WILLIAMS — Services for Crystal Dawn Williams, three-month-old daughter of Mrs. Bonnie Williams of Bloomingburg, were held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Morrow-Huffman Funeral Home, Washington C.H., with the Rev. Glenn Williams, pastor of the Washington Avenue House of Prayer, officiating.

Burial for the infant, who died Tuesday, followed in Bloomingburg Cemetery.

CHRISTINA MORRIS — Graveside services for Christina Lynn Morris, daughter of Jean Ann Morris of 1107 Rawlings St., were held at 10 a.m. Thursday in Bloomingburg Cemetery with the Rev. Forest Porter officiating. The infant was stillborn Tuesday in Fayette Memorial Hospital. Burial was made under the direction of the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home.

Man wins trial reversal on suppressed evidence

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Clyde F. Earley Jr., convicted in a 1974 Cambridge armed robbery, will get a new trial under a Supreme Court ruling today.

The state's high court refused to review a 5th District Court of Appeals decision overturning the guilty verdict.

The 5th District ruled that Earley had been denied the right to show the jury important evidence of his innocence. The evidence purportedly proved that a prosecution witness lied on the stand.

Earley was arrested in the Oct. 15, 1974, armed robbery of the Ranch Market in Cambridge. The robber was masked and identification was possible, but articles taken in the robbery were found in Earley's apartment.

Blaze kills 8 persons

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fire swept through a five-story apartment building during pre-dawn darkness today, killing at least eight persons and injuring several others, authorities said. Fire officials said there were indications of possible arson.

Fire Chief Keith Calden said seven bodies were found in the gutted building, and an eighth person died at San Francisco General Hospital.

Fifteen others were treated for injuries, and 10 of them — including seven firemen — were hospitalized, authorities said.

Several of the more than 125 residents of the Gartland Hotel-Apartments in the city's Mission District used blankets to lower themselves to safety from upper floors, and others leaped from one story up.

Possible perjury by Kissinger seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee's investigation of U.S. covert operations in Chile "indicates that perjury may have been committed" by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and three other present or former top U.S. officials, according to Sen. Gary Hart.

Hart, a Democrat from Colorado, stopped short of calling any of them a liar. Instead, he cited examples of their statements to other congressional committees "which appear to be misleading at best, or, perhaps, perjurious."

The other three mentioned by Hart are former CIA Director Richard M. Helms, former U.S. Ambassador to Chile Edward Korry and Charles Meyer, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

In a speech to the Senate Thursday, Hart cited Helms' testimony March

1973 before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee when Helms responded "No, sir," to the question: "Did the CIA attempt at any time to prevent Salvador Allende Gossens from being elected president of Chile in 1970?"

Hart noted that a 1970 CIA memo stated that "the director (Helms) told the group that President Nixon had decided that an Allende regime in Chile was not acceptable to the United States. The President asked the agency to prevent Allende from coming to power or to unseat him. The President authorized $10 million for this purpose, if needed."

Hart also cited a September 1973 statement by Kissinger before the Foreign Relations Committee that "the CIA ... was in a very minor way involved in the 1970 election and since then we have absolutely stayed away from coups."

According to Hart, the record compiled by the intelligence committee showed that the CIA spent $1 million on a "spoiling operation against Allende prior to his September 1970 election. After that effort failed, U.S. agents attempted to prevent him from taking office by promoting a military coup, Hart said.

"I would not call this kind of involvement 'minor,'" he declared.

Hart also cited conflicts in the congressional testimony of Korry and Meyer, but he held out the possibility that Korry and Meyer may not have been informed of the full extent of U.S. covert operations in Chile.

Hart said he made his speech in an effort to spur the Justice Department to action.

"This conflict has been evident for two years and nothing has happened," he said.

The Justice Department, which is known to be investigating a number of CIA activities involving Helms, has asked the committee to turn over the testimony taken from various witnesses concerning Chile.

At a public hearing Thursday, Committee Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, assured Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi "that the committee ... is fully willing to cooperate in any way."

Blacksmith

the gait of each type is different, particular procedures must be followed.

A pacer's legs follow parallel movements, with both legs of one side springing outward and back at the same time. If a shoe does not fit correctly, it may cause the horse to run out of step and constantly strike one or both of its hind legs in the process. The trotter employing a slower gait, may nonetheless suffer the same problems if not properly shod for its own characteristic leg movement of a diagonal nature. In this case, the front hooves may come into contact with one another at the gallop.

Using horseshoes forged on the premises, Dunton must fit the same horse every three weeks if it is running in competition, and every 30 days if it is in training. Lengths of steel ranging in size from 11 inches to 13 inches are heated over soft coal until they are red hot, and then bent around an anvil to form the basic U-shape.

While still hot, the shoe is perforated by three holes pounded on either side of the circular toe area. After much hammering, flipping, and bending, the forging job is completed, a process that takes about six or seven minutes.

A potential trotter or pacer is outfitted with its first shoes as it is being broken in, around the age of 18 months. It is at this time that the horse's particular style of running is determined, and the exact size and weight of each shoe is custom-made.

The shoe must correctly fit the bottom of the hoof so that the foot will come into contact with the ground squarely and all at once. Thereafter, Dunton checks the horse periodically, and if new shoes are required, the old ones are scrapped, excess hoof growth is planed off the bottom, and new shoes are nailed on.

Young colts are understandably nervous their first time at the blacksmith's shop and they may have to be tranquilized somewhat to be kept from kicking. A little psychology is employed by Dunton who attempts to make the young horse associate the smithy with a congenial atmosphere. No harsh words or slappings are administered by Dunton, and he is always patient with the future returning customer.

Between February and October, Dunton's time is fully occupied by his business, and an average workday encompasses 12 hours. Regardless of the time of year, he must reserve a few days out of each month for services to the horse farms of McKinley Kirk and Robert Stuckey.

In his spare time, Dunton raises four show horses of his own, and throughout the winter months serves as assistant wrestling coach at Miami Trace High School. Even in this capacity he is not totally removed from the profession he enjoys so much. During the recent Miami Trace-Springfield Northeastern wrestling match, he shouted himself "hoarse" urging on the members of the team.

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined gradually today under the weight of concern that interest rates might be in for an upward move.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 4.01 at 828.72, and losers held a 2-1 advantage over gainers in quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

After the close Thursday the Federal Reserve's weekly report showed a jump in the nation's money supply to a record level. That gave rise to concern that the Fed might tighten up its credit policy in order to keep the economy from heating up too fast.

Avon Products gained 1/2 to 35 in a 150,000-share block trade after a delayed opening. The company called off a diversification plan which had been given a cold reception by investors.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped .17 to 46.12. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .23 to 81.95.

U.S. heavily involved in Angola?

WASHINGTON (AP) — American military aid to a pair of anti-Soviet factions in the Angolan civil war has cost nearly $50 million, Sen. Dick Clark of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee confirmed today.

Asked about the $50 million figure quoted by the Washington Post and The New York Times, Clark, chairman of the panel's subcommittee on Africa, said, "Those are both pretty close."

In a story that quoted unidentified informed sources, the Post said the bulk of the U.S.-supplied military equipment has been sent to the former Portuguese African colony in the last six months and that most of it is being funneled through neighboring Zaire.

Recipients of the reported aid are the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA) and the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA), which are battling the Soviet-backed Popular Movement or the Liberation of Angola (MPLA).

Meanwhile, columnist Jack Anderson asserted today that "the Gulf Oil Co. is supporting the Communist guerrillas in Angola at the staggering rate of $500 million a year."

Anderson, in remarks prepared for ABC-TV's "Good Morning, America," said "CIA officials have complained privately that Gulf is pouring far more money into the Communist movement than the United States is contributing to the anti-Communist guerrillas."

A Gulf spokesman said the company pays royalties and taxes to the Angolan government as part of an oil concession agreement that dates back to the late 1960s.

Bad weather hits nation

Rain, snow and icy drizzles plagued much of the nation today, but clear skies prevailed along the Eastern Seaboard and through the Deep South.

The precipitation was generally light, but it caused hazardous driving conditions in many areas.

Drizzle dampened the Midwest from northern Ohio to southern Iowa and eastern Kansas, while freezing drizzle was reported across southern Lower Michigan, northern Illinois, southeast Nebraska, western Kansas and eastern Colorado.

Snow was scattered across the upper Great Lakes, from western New York State and northwest Pennsylvania into southern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. Snow also fell across eastern Montana, the Dakotas and western Nebraska.

Rain dampened the coasts of Oregon and northern California, while snow fell in the interior sections of both states.

Clear skies were confined to the Southern, the Middle Atlantic states and northern New England.

Traffic Court

A Chillicothe man was found guilty of driving while intoxicated and failing to drive on the right half of the roadway by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner during Thursday's court proceedings.

Carl R. Downs, 23, of Chillicothe, was fined $200 and court costs, sentenced to serve 3 days in jail and had his driver's license suspended 30 days on the drunk driving charge and was fined $25 and costs on the second aforementioned citation. Downs had been arrested by Fayette County Sheriff's deputies Nov. 22 in the vicinity of Palmer Road and U.S. 35. According to sheriff's reports, he had failed to stop at the stop sign at the intersection and slid off the roadway into a fence.

Judge Winegardner heard other traffic cases and accepted a bond forfeiture Thursday. The bench was shared by acting Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case who heard one traffic case.

David A. Steinbrugge, 27, Dayton, was fined $150 and court costs and sentenced to serve two days in jail by Judge Winegardner after being found guilty of driving while under financial responsibility suspension.

Jeffrey M. Long, 20, Jeffersonville, was fined $100 and court costs by Judge Winegardner for reckless operation of a motor vehicle.

Lloyd C. Kemp, 28, Springfield, was fined $75 and court costs for reckless operation by Judge Winegardner.

Roger D. Parsons, 21, Robinson Road, was fined $35 and court costs by Judge Winegardner for operating an unsafe vehicle.

Donald E. Ryan, 28, of 619 Gibbs Ave., was fined $18 and court costs by Judge Winegardner for failing to obey a traffic device.

Thomas Nisley, 48, Chillicothe, was fined $25 and court costs by Judge Case for improper passing.

A bond forfeiture of $25 was accepted by Judge Winegardner from Barbara R. Thompson, 39, of 185 Hawthorne Drive, for improper backing.

Mental patient faces multiple charges

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. said he plans to send John William Boyd, 49, Middletown, Ohio, to be tried in Falmouth, Ky., for the murder of kidnap victim Susan Gorman.

Leis, adding there may be some legal technicalities to overcome, said he plans to bring Boyd back to Cincinnati for trial on the kidnap charge afterward.

Meanwhile, at Lawrenceburg, Ind., Dearborn County Prosecutor Joseph Votaw said he will seek to try Boyd on a kidnap-rape charge involving a 15-year-old Dillsboro, Ind. girl in 1974.

Pendleton County, Ky., Commonwealth Attorney G.L. Tucker Thursday filed a charge of murder while committing rape against Boyd. He said conviction on the charge can require the death penalty.

Kentucky State Police Lt. Ben Harney said the 19-year-old University of Cincinnati prelaw student was strangled where her body was found Dec. 3 off Kentucky 609 near Butler, Ky. He said some of her clothing and personal effects were found in Kentucky.

Cincinnati police said the victim was abducted Nov. 26 as she left a Hyde Park section cheese store where she worked. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Ellen Gorman, 49, received a telephone ransom demand of $5,000 the next day.

Thanksgiving. The caller never called back after the mother of six said the family did not have enough money.

Boyd was arrested at the Rollman Psychiatric Institute where he was a patient. Hospital officials said Boyd himself telephoned police. The same officials said Boyd had been released on a pass Nov. 26 to visit his family over Thanksgiving.

Police said they have two copies of a letter detailing the kidnaping. One was found near a copying machine at a Middletown, Ohio, store. The second was sent to The Cincinnati Enquirer and turned over to police. Police also confiscated a typewriter from Boyd's home.

Boyd remains in the Cincinnati Correctional Institute in lieu of $210,000 bond. His arraignment is scheduled to continue Monday. Police testified at the opening of the hearing Wednesday that Boyd had made a statement to them.

Harney said Kentucky State Police have witnesses who say Boyd was in Kentucky Nov. 26. Harney said Boyd was familiar with the area where the body was found. Boyd worked last summer at a camp 15 miles away.

Meanwhile, in Indiana, a request for a change of venue was scheduled today in Dearborn County Court. Votaw said he would recommend the trial in the case there be transferred to Brookville, Ind.

Judge sentences check defendant to jail term

A South Solon woman, charged with two counts of bad check passing, one of which fell into the legal category of a fourth degree felony was fined and sentenced on the charges by acting Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case during Thursday's court proceedings.

Judge Case found Ann Fugate, 32, guilty on both bad check charges. She had passed the fraudulent checks at the Kroger store, Clinton Avenue; one on July 11 for $45.34 and the second on July 19 for $160.82. Ms. Fugate was arrested by city police under a private warrant filed by Charles Edwards, manager of Kroger's. She was fined $25 and court costs and sentenced to serve 30 days in jail with the jail time suspended on three years good behavior on the July 11 check.

The larger check was classified as a fourth degree felony but reduced to a misdemeanor upon the recommendation of the prosecution. Judge Case fined Ms. Fugate $25 and court costs, and sentenced her to serve 30 days in jail on the reduced charge. Like the first charge, the jail time was suspended providing she stay on good behavior for three years.

A second non-traffic case heard by Judge Case involved the improper transport of a firearm.

Payments made for wildlife kills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Payments of $6,969 have been received for three wildlife kills from water pollution, the Department of Natural Resources says.

The city of Bucyrus paid $5,809 for two incidents in which sewage was dumped into the Sandusky River.

Adult education boom

The adage that you can't teach an old dog new tricks has been given the lie by a phenomenal boom in adult education over the past decade. An expert in the field goes further than this. The adult education phenomenon, in his view, suggests that "there are some tricks only an old dog can learn."

The author of that tricky switch on a familiar saying is Dr. Burton

Kreitlow of the University of Wisconsin at Madison, now a visiting professor at Ohio State University. He notes that the back-to-school rush by older people is largely a response to technological change which requires keeping abreast of new developments. In consequence, since 1965 enrollment in adult education courses has gone up an astonishing 49 per cent.

This is clearly the wave of the future. For as our society becomes more and more complex the need for refresher courses will rise accordingly. Another element in the picture is the growing recognition that retirement does not mean indolence but can involve productive, creative activity.

WASHINGTON CALLING.... By Marquis Childs

The Humphrey phenomenon

WASHINGTON — When he comes out of a crowded Senate hearing or even as he crosses the street, strangers come up to him to say, "You've got to run, we don't see anyone else we trust."

The Humphrey phenomenon, one of the most curious developments in contemporary politics, is building every day.

Sen Hubert Horatio Humphrey is doing nothing to encourage it nor is he doing anything to dampen it. He is just being Humphrey and that means moving with a speed that leaves all those close to him on the ropes. He speaks around the country with the wit, the intellect, the good nature that have marked his public life.

At times impatient, he says, why should it be me? I've got a nice home out there in Minnesota. I've just had a physical examination that shows I'm in better health than I have ever been. And my wife, Muriel, would rather push her head through that wall than go through another campaign.

The answer to his question is that an increasing number of Democrats and some Republicans see him as the only figure on the horizon of 1976 with the experience, the intellect, the judgment to lead the country through the mass of trouble we are in. They see him as a compromise that the party and the nation could accept, not far from the center, between the populist left and the conservative right.

He swears he will enter none of the 30 primaries and will not make a move toward the nomination until after June 8 and the last of the primary contests. If no single candidate emerges from the crowded field and he decided to go all out, he would have a month before the convention of his party in Madison Square garden.

There is another side to Humphrey, the optimist, the yea-sayer. Looking at the fracas and the fragmentation that can come out of those 30 primaries, he can see a strife-torn convention taking a last-minute choice who would bear the scars of all the in-fighting over the past six months. Then the gloomy Humphrey believes that Ronald Reagan, the smooth performer whom he sees as the Republican nominee, could win.

But these fits of gloom are of short duration. Hard-pushed as he is, carrying most of the burden of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and with his responsibility as chairman of the joint economic committee, he has little time for melancholy rumination.

The doubters, needless to add they include the 10 candidates already announced as running with more to come and their followers, say he is old hat. He goes on repeating what he's been saying since he was Mayor of Minneapolis 30 years ago. The young will never take him, too many times around the track.

This has not escaped Humphrey. He is aware of how much more is essential to an understanding of the plight of the country with a persistent unemployment rate above 8 per cent.

He has put in a resolution calling for an investigation of the economy with full resources of staff and subpoena power. It would be something like the Temporary National Economic Committee, which, as directed by Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming, spread out in volume after volume the most complete picture of the American economic system ever assembled.

Humphrey believes something like that thorough appraisal is essential today. And while the Joint Economic Committee is an avenue for at least a limited search, Humphrey believes an independent inquiry of large scope is urgently needed.

The Humphrey phenomenon is certain to grow. Should he issue a Sherman-like statement saying he would not accept the nomination if it was offered to him and would not serve as president if he were elected? This is what some of the entries in the crowded field would like to have him do.

Certainly not. He is frank to admit that politics, and particularly the politics of the presidency, is an addiction for which there is no cure. Humphrey speaks of the good qualities of many of the men who are running but he believes that the very size of the field has made the race slightly absurd.

In 1968 only a few hundred thousand votes kept him from the presidency and brought Richard Nixon into office. That was when Vietnam and the Vietnam riots were still an issue. In the quieter era that has followed a new Humphrey may win by steering clear of the fray.

Ohio Perspective

Farmers back grain exports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's farmers see nothing inconsistent about supporting open exports to Russia and other countries despite their traditional conservative political philosophy.

C. William Swank, executive president of the 64,000-member Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, says farmers are aware of change in the world and believe it is better "to send bushels than bullets" to the Soviet Union.

Swank conceded that many, if not most midwest farmers were "hawks" on the Vietnam War, but he said "that was a different situation. Our country was at war."

Now, he says, farmers see things differently. "They think they can see Russia changing the same way we are here. They are getting closer to capitalism, and we're getting closer to socialism."

The spokesman for Ohio's largest farm organization said "our people are geared to help feed the hungry of the world, but they object to the cost falling just on the farmer." It is time, he said, for farmers to show some of their "economic muscle."

Swank won approval at the federation's state meeting this month of two resolutions calling for farmers to become active in trying to block federal controls such as future embargoes against foreign grain exports.

One proposed an economic boycott against the manufacturers of farm machinery and equipment to gain more strength in the formulation of federal policy.

Even more drastic was Swank's second proposal for a policy that would have Ohio's farmers plant and grow "only what they think they can sell." He deplored "set asides" (surpluses in storage) which he said wouldn't be tolerated in other kinds of businesses. "That's like making General Motors put aside half the cars it had already built," he said.

Swank deplored the 10-week embargo against grain exports early this fall which resulted in Ohio's farmers having to store some four million tons of grain on the ground. Ohio produced a record amount of wheat, soybeans, and corn this year after federal officials gave assurances last January that "exports will be kept open," he said.

As it turned out, Swank said Ohioans lost little of the openly stored grain because "we had an open fall. The weather was dry, by the grace of God." But he contended the delay was a big factor that caused early fall prices to drop about $1 a bushel for soybeans and 50 cents a bushel on corn.

Col. Ebenezer Sproat, 6-foot-4 in height, commanded troops at Marietta in the ceremonies marking establishment of the Northwest Territory government. Indians who watched called Sproat the "tall Buckeye" because of his stature, and that name was soon applied to all Ohioans.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dad treats her friend with more than courtesy

DEAR ABBY: Cathy is my best friend. We are both 15. Cathy spends a lot of time at my house. When my father is home, he has the habit of kissing Cathy on the lips whenever she arrives or goes home. Do you consider this proper behavior for a 38-year-old man?

Also, my father is always trying to get Cathy to sit on his lap. Sometimes she does and sometimes she doesn't. I don't know if this is embarrassing Cathy or not. As a daughter it doesn't bother me, but I sure wouldn't want Cathy's father kissing me on the lips or asking me to sit on his lap.

What is your opinion?
DADDY'S DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: I think Cathy is a little too OLD to be kissed on the lips by your father. And your father is much too YOUNG to have a 15-year old girl on his lap.

DEAR ABBY: Allen and I have been married for four years and have a darling baby girl who is nearly 3.

Allen is an excellent provider, and I am content to stay at home and be a full-time wife and mother.

My problem? I feel that woman was put on this earth to serve her husband and bear children, but every time I mention having another baby, Allen explodes. He says, "One is enough and that is final!"

Abby, I've always wanted six children, but I'd settle for just one more. To me a large family means everything. I have literally begged him, but he refuses to hear of it. In fact, he says if I get pregnant, he will divorce me!

I went on the Pill after our first child was born, but I stopped three weeks ago. Allen doesn't know I stopped, and he'd hit the roof if he did.

If I do get pregnant, what is my next move? I hate being underhanded, but it was my last resort.

Please help me.

WANTS ANOTHER BABY
DEAR WANTS: You say a large family means "everything" to you and that your husband has threatened to divorce you if you become pregnant! To compound the problem, you're playing Vatican roulette. You had better level with Allen. You just might be married to the wrong man.

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a girl who refers to herself as a "feminist." I consider myself a gentleman and not the least bit chauvinistic.

Here's my problem: Nancy objects to my doing things like opening doors for her, helping her with her coat and standing up when she enters the room.

These old-fashioned courtesies have become second nature to me, and I feel foolish when Nancy refuses to allow me to perform them.

This is the only thing that bothers me in our otherwise perfect relationship. I hope you print this, because Nancy reads your column, and I want her to see it.

DEAR "S": All right, so assuming she sees it that still doesn't solve your problem. Nancy says these old-fashioned courtesies have got to go, and you feel foolish capitulating. If you want your "otherwise perfect relationship" to get off the ground, either start teaching Nancy like one of the boys or find a girl who doesn't regard the old-fashioned courtesies as chauvinistic.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday Dec. 12, the 346th day of 1975. There are 19 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1642, the Dutch navigator Abel Tasman discovered New Zealand.

On this date —
In 1792, 22-year-old Ludwig Van Beethoven paid 19 cents for his first music lesson — from Franz Joseph Haydn.

In 1804, Spain declared war on Britain.

In 1894, Japanese troops invaded Korea.

In 1937, the U.S. gunboat "Panay" was sunk by the Japanese on the Yangtze River in China.

In 1944, Tokyo was partially evacuated because of firebombing by American planes.

In 1964, Kenya became an independent republic within the British Commonwealth.

Ten years ago: The countdown for the Gemini 6 space flight had to be halted because of an electrical malfunction.

Five years ago: a state of emergency was declared in Britain because of a power slowdown.

One year ago: eight Latin American countries issued a declaration of agreement to limit armaments and stop acquiring offensive weapons.

Today's birthday: Frank Sinatra is 60 years old.

Thought for today: a great man is always willing to be little — Ralph Waldo Emerson, American essayist and poet, 1803-1882.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, Benjamin Franklin wrote: "I am very old and can scarcely hope to see the event of this great contest, but, looking forward, I think I see a powerful dominion growing up..."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 13

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

There's never a dull moment when you are at your best — and this is a day when you SHOULD be. There's plenty of planetary help for the ambitious, optimistic do-er.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

You may have to discipline yourself sternly to keep on the road to accomplishment now. Be especially careful not to lose your temper if certain persons annoy.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Many demands will be made on your time and effort. There won't be an easy way to handle but, with your optimism, originality and ingenuity, you'll find the means with which to cope.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Fine influences! A good day for making important decisions. Especially favored: business negotiations, long-term investments, all occupations involving dealings with the public.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Don't let your curiosity get the better of you. It just COULD lead you into a ticklish situation which would prove far from desirable.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

This day is especially tailored for scientific matters; professional, technical workers; also has bright prospects for teachers, students. New ideas stimulated.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Sincere endeavor and accuracy could carry you far beyond expectations if you put them into force and direct your energies into constructive channels.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Tip-top Mars influences stimulate possibilities of progress. You should feel buoyed for action. Details, tedious work, well-handled, can bring fine returns.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Jupiter's auspicious influence fans the fire of enthusiasm for dedicated purpose, popular enterprises. This should be a day to remember.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Saturn favorable. This is the time to press forward with all the grit and good will you can (and that can be a great deal when the Capricornian really tries).

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

In making changes or starting anything new, consider all possible after-effects. Weakness in spots must be shored up.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Some favorable hours; others will present unexpected obstacles. With self-confidence and your innately philosophical attitude, you can take all in stride.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with keen mental and physical abilities which usually coordinate extraordinarily well to produce a high level of success. You are innately logical, objective and perceptive in your thinking and, properly educated, of course, could succeed in almost any field of your choosing. Your fair-mindedness and keen sense of justice make you an outstanding mediator or arbitrator and your idealism and integrity inspire others to follow your lead. You could make an outstanding success in the business, financial, literary or legal worlds but, unlike many Sagittarians, where the arts are concerned, you may be better at selling than creating. Don't let your fierce sense of independence alienate others.

Retail sales gains noted for Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Automotive and other durable goods dominated retail sales gains in Ohio in October, the Ohio State University Center for Business and Economic Research says.

Those sales marked the fourth consecutive monthly increase, the center said, rising 3.9 per cent over September and 8 per cent over the same period a year earlier.

Among 25 types of businesses surveyed, 11 had increases over October 1974, 13 showed decreases and state liquor store results were about unchanged.

Automobile dealers said sales were up 26 per cent in October in October, and household appliance, television and radio stores said sales were up 20 per cent.

Fuel sales plummeted 76 per cent during the month, and hay, feed and garden stores felt a 35 per cent decline.

For the first 10 months of 1975, 13 of the 25 businesses increased sales and 12 decreased over the first 10 months of 1974, the center said.

History shows many clergymen also invent

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Professionally, clergymen have the job of building faith, brotherhood and service among the people, but some of them do some other original building on their own.

They're inventors.
History is dotted with clergy who discovered new methods or principles, and some contemporary men of the cloth also work at it, dreaming up new ways of doing things.

"Inventing comes naturally to a clergymen," says Raymond Lee, head of a New York City organization of that name which assists inventors in research and marketing their ideas.

He says that a clergyman's "business is to be a leader, a teacher, a problem solver in the community, and it is these same traits that are pre-conditions of innovations."

As with the bulk of more than 70,000 inventions patented each year in this country, most of the clergy output consists of minor devices, designed to simplify getting things done.

But the inventive contributions of religious professionals remembered in history involve major forward strides, including:

The 15th century Polish priest-astronomer Nicholas Copernicus who first enunciated the principle that the earth and planets move around the sun; the 18th century British chemist-clergyman Joseph Priestley who discovered oxygen and other basic elements; the 19th century Austrian monk, Gregor Mendel, who disclosed the genetic laws of heredity; Sister Elizabeth Kenney, the 20th century American nun who pioneered physiotherapy in treating polio.

Movable type was invented by the 15th century German, Johann Gutenberg, so the Bible could be printed.

Most inventions, however, have far less impact, and generally are novel gadgets for doing some common task better or easier. This is the case for clergymen who lately have patented their ideas, a check shows.

Usually their work is to fill some particular need they've encountered personally or in their families.

This was the situation for Rev. E. Keim, of the nondenominational Cornerstone church, Warwick, R.I., whose daughter's car was hit in the rear, bursting and igniting the gas tank and enveloping the car in flames.

The occupants escaped unhurt, but the accident left him "thinking of a way to correct this condition," he says. Although not an engineer, he designed a fireproof gas tank, double-walled, with fire extinguishing liquid between the walls to prevent the fuel from being ignited if the tank is broken.

It was worked out "step by step in prayer," he says. "Whatever the outcome, the Lord gets the glory."

Scriptures sold locally

Area residents can now buy Bibles, testaments, gospel portions and other selections in the American Bible Society Scripture Courtesy Center that Mrs. Hazel Leadbetter has set up in her garage. It is totally a non-profit, volunteer operation. Mrs. Leadbetter buys the scriptures, below cost, from the society, and sells them at that same price. Prices range from three cents for a story leaflet to about $2 for a Bible. Approximate cost of a testament is 65 cents. There are many different items from which to choose.

The Bible Society Scripture Courtesy Center is located at 13030 CCC Highway-W one mile east of Sabina. The center will be open from noon until 5 p.m. Friday Dec. 12. After this date, people seeking to visit the center must call for an appointment.

Sunday School schedules play

The First Baptist Church Sunday School of Jeffersonville is presenting a play entitled "Why Christmas?" Sunday, Dec. 21. A large cast of youngsters has spent the past several weeks preparing their roles. Curtain time is set for 7 p.m.

Jesus Appears to the Apostles

And as they thus spake, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you. — Luke 24:36

No sooner had Jesus revealed himself to the disciples at Emmaus than they hastened back to Jerusalem to tell His apostles the breath-taking news. Mary Magdalene had also given them the glad tidings and so all were in a state of great excitement when, suddenly, Jesus appeared in their midst. At first, they were terrified but, when Jesus said: "Peace be unto you," and showed them the wounds in his hands and side, their joy knew no bounds. Then he blessed them again, saying: "as my father hath sent me, so send I you." And he breathed the Holy Spirit upon them and gave them the power to forgive sins.

Sugar Creek Baptist minister

An installation service for the Rev. Noel McLaren and his family will be held at the Sugar Creek Baptist Church at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, December 14. A reception will follow in the social rooms of the church.

The pulpit committee, consisting of Olan Bentley, Mrs. Mander Boggs, Bob Ellars, Mrs. Charles Mills, Mrs. Ed

Shoemaker, Mrs. Larry Carman, Mrs. Robert Goodson, Mrs. Harry Campbell and Orley Varney Jr. are in charge of the service.

Assisting in the installation will be the Rev. John Eldred, area minister of the Ohio Baptist Convention, the Rev. A.J. Eddy, president of the Clinton Baptist Association, and the Rev. Earl Russell, president of the Fayette County Ministerial Association.

Humbard gospel group

GAR, Circle 25 has party

The Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Circle 25, met at the Sulky Restaurant for a meeting and noon luncheon Thursday. Miniature teddy bears made of gum drops and holiday centerpieces graced the tables.

In the absence of Mrs. Herbert Hoppes, Miss Florence Purcell, senior vice president, presided, when Mrs. Lawrence Black led the Pledge of Allegiance, Articles of Faith and American's Creed.

Communications were read from Mrs. Margaret Orr, national treasurer, who had sent Bicentennial stickers to the group. Mrs. Wilbur Morgan and Mrs. Ralph Hays were appointed to purchase gifts for the shut-ins of the Circle. The new officers will be installed at the January meeting. Members brought gifts for the Sandusky Home, and reports were made by officers. A gift exchange followed by members Miss Purcell, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Ralph Child, Mrs. Nona Stevens, Mrs. Black, Mrs. Roy Pfeifer, Mrs. Harry Bell, Mrs. Ralph Hays, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. Frances Toops, Miss Florence Hidy and Mrs. Walter Parrett.

Mrs. Bush Staunton hostess

Mrs. Alice Bush was hostess in her home for a carry-in luncheon and Christmas gift exchange when the Staunton United Methodist Women gathered this week. Devotions pertaining to the 'Nativity' were presented by Mrs. J.O. Wilson, and Mrs. Donald Pemberton read "Christmas for Everyone."

For the program, Mrs. Henry Simmons read "One of the Least Ones," and Mrs. Walter Parrett had made 14 small red stockings with Christian symbols inscribed on them. Each stocking held a message pertaining to the symbols, which the remaining members read. This concluded the program.

Members sang Christmas carols and a gift exchange. The bake sale which is planned for Saturday at Buckeye Mart, was discussed, and the plans for the Christmas treat at the church. There were 47 calls and visits reported and cheer cards signed.

Members will meet at the home of Mrs. J.O. Wilson, at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 16, to prepare 20 cheer plates for shut-ins, to be delivered for Christmas.

Mrs. Milbourne L. Barney and Mrs. Pauline Fisher, guests for the meeting, were also welcomed as new members of the United Methodist Women.

Also present were Mrs. Willard Allen, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Florence Bethards, Mrs. Barney, Mrs. Fisher, Rev. and Mrs. Simmons, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Harry Hayslip, Mrs. Walter Parrett, Mrs. C.F. Wickle, Mrs. Donald Pemberton, Mrs. Homer Wilson and Mrs. Elza Smith.

Mrs. Allen was the winner of a door prize.

Mrs. Tuvell entertains CCL

Zeta Child Conservation League members met in the home of Mrs. Jim Tuvell for the annual Christmas party. Guests lingered around the punch bowl and were served hot hors d'oeuvres preceding the meeting and party. Presiding at the punch bowl were Mrs. Clinton Gilmore and Mrs. Gary Kirk.

Following the playing of bingo, a gift exchange was enjoyed. A dessert smorgasbord was prepared by the committee composed of Mrs. Alford Carr, Mrs. Cinda Slager and Mrs. David Boswell.

Members present were Mrs. Wayne Baird, Mrs. Larry Bishop, Mrs. Carolyn Bonham, Mrs. Roger Boswell, Mrs. David Boswell, Mrs. Carr, Mrs. Alvin Dorn, Mrs. Marion Frantz, Mrs. Gilmore, Mrs. Robert Highfield, Mrs. Paul Hughes, Mrs. Kirk, Mrs. Russell Klontz, Mrs. John Marcum, Mrs. Slager, Mrs. Jerry McCoy, Mrs. Tuvell, Mrs. Richard Waters and Mrs. Alan Wilt.

The Christmas party to be given for students at the Fayette Progressive School Dec. 18 was discussed. The committee for the party is Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Phil Grover, Ms. Klontz and Mrs. Bishop.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Carr on Jan. 20.

Cantata scheduled

A Christmas Cantata, "Love, Joy, Peace" by Tom Fetteke, will be presented by the adult choir of First Christian Church at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Soloists will be Miss Anita Pruitt, Mrs. Ray Russell, Jeffrey Sheridan, and Robert Maust. Accompanists for the program will be Mrs. Wayne Spengler, organist and Miss Elaine Stookey, pianist. The narrative parts will be read by Steve Reeves, the youth minister of the church. Mrs. Coyt Stookey is choir director.

Miss Jeri Maust will play a flute solo, "Gesu Bambino" as a prelude to the service. The choir would like to invite all those who love Christmas music to attend this service and enjoy with them this inspiring music.

Mrs. Willis club hostess

Mrs. Thomas Willis graciously entertained The Stitch and Chatter Kensington Club at her home.

The philanthropic offering taken at the Christmas meeting was designated to be given to the Prayer Breakfast that meets weekly at The South Side Church of Christ. Poinsettias were in focal places in the home.

Guests were invited to the dining room where the linen covered table was centered with red carnations and Christmas holly in a crystal container. A dessert course of cherry pie a la mode, together with nuts, chips, divinity fudge, tea and coffee was served. Party favors of pin cushions were given to teach. Mrs. Celia Jaynes was included as a guest.

Those sharing in the day were: Mrs. Ernest Brookover, Mrs. John Case, Mrs. Claude Davis, Miss Norma Dodd, Mrs. Ralph Hays, Mrs. Joseph O'Brien, Mrs. J.G. Jordan and Mrs. Jaynes.

MR. AND MRS. DANA KELLENBERGER

'Open House' is planned for golden anniversary

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Dana H. Kellenberger, Sr., request the presence of relatives and friends at an "Open House" on Sunday, Dec. 21, at Wayne Township Hall, Good Hope, from 2 until 5 p.m. in honor of their parents 50th wedding anniversary.

They received congratulations from President and Mrs. Gerald Ford on Thursday.

Helen M. Imler and Mr. Kellenberger were united in marriage Dec. 18, 1925, in the Kingston Presbyterian Church by the Rev. T.C. Kerr.

They are the parents of Mrs. Dane (Joy) Anderson, Dana Jr., Karl, Royce, Gary, and Mrs. Anthony (Sharon) Hicks, all of Washington C.H.; Larry of Circleville; Mrs. Thomas (Trisha) Klock of Houston, Tex.; Mrs. Everett (Linda) Stone of Jeffersonville; and Mrs. Rick (Deidra) Wilson of Sabina. They also have 18 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

'Holiday decorations' is topic for AAUW December meeting

The members of American Association of University Women were the guests of Mrs. Frank Mayo. She and her assistant, Miss Elsie Forman, served plum pudding, an original Old English Christmas dessert.

Mrs. Everett Robbins presented a very interesting program, showing the members ideas of Christmas decorations which can be made from florists materials, junk jewelry and some creative imagination. She demonstrated the making of a florist's bow, a dry floral arrangement, and a cut flower arrangement. Mrs. Robbins also brought some lovely arrangements from her Greenfield shop to show how to accessorize ready-made wreaths and how to use common materials such as mats, wicker trays, and old jewelry to beautiful use. She gave club members special tips on how to care for Christmas poinsettias, cut flowers, terrariums, and indoor plants.

After completing her demonstration, Mrs. Robbins gave a holiday arrangement featuring white chrysanthemums and cedars, and a beautiful Scotch plaid bow with a Christmas cornhusk mouse as door prizes. The arrangement was won by Mrs. George O'Brian, and the bow by Mrs. Stanley Scott.

The president, Mrs. Walter Parsley, presented Mrs. Robbins with an AAUW Historic Cookbook in appreciation of her informative and interesting demonstration. During the business meeting, the president said that 200 more cookbooks were to arrive on Thursday and would be sold for $2.50. Other reports were given also.

Mrs. Mayo gave small Whitman Christmas Samplers as favors and then drew a number for the Bicentennial keepsake coin, which was won by Mrs. Robbins.

Other members present were Mrs. Ronald Coe, Mrs. Robert Decker, Mrs. John Frederick, Mrs. W.O. Fullerton, Mrs. Donald Ginn, Mrs. S.J. Kennedy, Mrs. Glenn Merritt, Mrs. Jack Montgomery, Mrs. Willard Rutledge, Mrs. Stan Toler, Mrs. Dewey Sheidler, and Mrs. A.D. Woodmansee.

The January meeting will feature a foreign dish dinner in the home of Mrs. T. Mark Dove, with Mrs. Stan Toler and Mrs. Robert Lee assisting. The husbands of the members are invited guests. Tim Dove will tell of his experiences this past summer in Paraguay, South America.

Loyal Daughters meet at the Sulky

The Sulky Restaurant was the setting for the annual Christmas dinner-meeting of the Loyal Daughters of First Christian Church which took place in the dining room. A lighted Christmas tree was in full view and holiday appointments enhanced the tables. A gift was at each place setting.

Special guests for the evening were the Rev. and Mrs. Ray Russell and Robert Seymour, class teacher, who was presented a gift in appreciation for his good lessons throughout the year.

"Put Christ into Christmas" and "Star of the East" were readings presented by Mrs. William Rulon for devotions. Mrs. Ward Brown, president, presided, when cards were signed for the ill and reports were made. In lieu of a gift exchange, cash gifts were sent to Grundy Mountain Mission School, Grundy, Va. and to the Rhinehart family, whose home was burned recently.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Dorothy Allen and the group will secure a poinsettia for the church for Christmas time.

Mary Guild

Mrs. Everett Robbins was hostess for the Mary Guild meeting of First Christian Church, with Mrs. Alfred Weatherly as co-hostess. Mrs. Edith Parsley presented prayer devotions followed by reports. Members signed cheer cards and donations were made to Grundy Mission School, and the Sunlight Chorus of the church.

The Guild will serve refreshments after the Christmas cantata at the church, Sunday, Dec. 14.

Ten fruit plates were prepared by the members and Mrs. Fullerton closed the meeting with prayer.

During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Geauga County, Ohio, formed in 1805, takes its name from the Indian word for "raccoon."

Youth Activities

CUB PACK 4

Recently Belle-Aire Cub Pack Scouts went to Columbus to visit the "Ohio Historical Center," located at I-71 and 17th Ave. The visit served two purposes: To celebrate our country's birthday by visiting a Shrine or historic place, also to develop a miniature exhibit of some historic shrine, event, or item on display in the Center. By building a miniature exhibit and displaying it in a window, the Cub Scouts will earn a Bicentennial patch called "Festival - USA" portraying the 1976 thirteen star American Flag, which is one of three the Boy Scouts of America has to offer.

Ten adult leaders, five den chiefs and 38 cubs boarded the bus at noon on Saturday. On arrival, the cubs watched a live demonstration in the nature theater and saw a very fine movie about John Audubon, a man who was famous for his water color paintings of birds. After the tour of the Center was completed, the cubs enjoyed supper at McDonald's and returned home by 6:30 p.m.

Those attending were Cub Master Earl Monroe; committee chairman Joe Hottinger; Webelos leaders Bob Miller and Andy Anderson; Den mothers, Elaine Anderson, Kathie DeWeese, Esther Kneisley and Jonell Miller; Den Chiefs, Keith Hottinger, Brian Hottinger, Craig Maddux, Randy Clark and Tim Kneisley.

Sailing ships to celebrate bicentennial

EDITOR'S NOTE — As part of the American Bicentennial celebration, 20 nations will crowd New York and Boston harbors next July with a huge fleet of old sailing ships.

By PETER BREWER
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — "We think it will be the biggest event of the 1976 Bicentennial," says Harry Lynch, a retired Coast Guard captain. "There is no doubt about it being the biggest spectacle of 1976."

"My son will be in it, aboard the Harvey Gamage," says Samuel Eliot Morison, the noted naval historian.

They are referring to Operation Sail '76, when many of the last square rigged sailing ships in the world will be assembled, along with other antique sailing ships, to help celebrate the nation's 200th birthday.

The focus is on a grand parade of sail up New York Harbor on July 4 and another into Boston Harbor six days later. Between 75 and 100 ships are expected to take part.

"I don't think you'll see anything of this magnitude again," said Lynch, who heads the Boston end of the operation.

The Boston parade is expected to be led by the USS Constitution — under tow. She is considered too frail and too much of a national treasure to have sails strain at her rigging.

The gathering is connected with the Tall Ships '76 races between Britain and the United States. The first race begins from Plymouth, England, on May 2; the second, the return leg to Plymouth, starts in Boston on July 15.

"It will be the greatest armada of sailing ships ever seen in this hemisphere," says Barclay Warburton of Newport, R.I., an organizer of the gathering. Warburton skips one of the last privately owned square riggers in the United States — the Black Pearl.

The biggest vessels expected are the powerful, graceful square-rigged training ships, between 200- and 375-feet long. At least 15 of these are due in New York, and as many as 10 in Boston.

About 75 smaller square rigged ships — barkentines, brigantines, hermaphrodite brigs — along with topsail schooners, coasting and cruise schooners, and seagoing ketches, yawls and cutters also are expected.

More than 20 nations will be represented. The Tall Ships contingent is racing to this country in stages, and will rendezvous with vessels from Latin America and the Far East.

From Bermuda, the armada sets out June 20 on a race to Newport, R.I., where the ships will prepare to sail to New York on July 1.

"As far as the spectator fleet is concerned, on that (arrival) day in Newport it will probably be comparable to — if not more than — the America's Cup," said Coast Guard Capt. Thomas McKenna.

"In Boston, I don't think our problem will be as great as Newport," he added. "From what I understand, it will be a matter of escorting the ships to assigned berths, and I think the majority of spectators will come from shore."

In Boston, most of the fleet is to tie up at the old Boston Army base where many will be opened to the public.

Warburton, who organized the American Sail Training Association in 1972, hopes the Tall Ships visit will spur the United States to develop sail training vessels for young people.

"The idea is to help get youngsters aboard deep water vessels as a part of character training," he said.

The Coast Guard Academy bark Eagle, virtually the only such vessel in U.S. waters, will take part in Operation Sail, but is not expected in Boston because of commitments for the academy's 100th birthday celebration.

Others that may come to Boston include the Soviet Union's 375-foot bark Krusenstern; the Gloria of Colombia; Esmeralda, Chile; Amerigo Vespucci, Italy; Sagres, Portugal; Juan Sebastian de Elcano, Spain; Dar Pomorza, Poland; Sir Winston Churchill, England; Duenna, East Germany; HMS Gladan, Sweden; Danmark, Denmark, and Norseman, Holland.

Small stock investors pulling out

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "The news is bad," said the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, James Needham, in announcing the latest shareowner census this week, the first one ever to show a decline.

The details included a drop to 25.2 million shareholders from 30.9 million in 1970, a rise in the median age of shareholders to 53 from 48, and an increase in portfolio size to $10,050 from $7,100.

The announcement came in an atmosphere of foreboding. Youth is disenchanted with free enterprise, it was said. Confidence has weakened. American industry won't be able to raise capital. People's capitalism is eroding.

Some reasons were offered. "Incessant meddling in the securities marketplace" by government, was one. The generally poor performance of the economy was correctly cited. Double taxation of dividends clearly has hurt.

While acknowledging the existence of reasons to be concerned, could there also be a more positive aspect to this census? There could be.

There is the clear suggestion in this census that share-ownership had risen too fast, from 12.5 million in 1959 to 17 million in 1962 to more than 20 million in 1965 — and then to nearly 31 million in 1970.

Why Too Fast?

—Educational attainment did not grow apace, as was demonstrated by the naivete of many stockholders during the 1960s, when spurious advice was accepted uncritically.

—The market structure itself could not accommodate them. It fell apart. Many brokers knew nothing about their customers. They couldn't handle the transactions. They lost track of accounts.

Studying the collapse of scores of brokers, the Securities Industry Protection Corp. found that mismanagement and a lack of understanding of the business itself were high on the list of reasons why.

The behavior of large segments of the marketplace were acknowledged to be scandalous. Disorder and bad ethics prevailed.

An atmosphere existed — not totally but perceptibly — in which the cautionary wisdom of the few was interpreted as the whinings of weary minds that couldn't adjust to the new modern realities. They weren't with it.

Meanwhile, the institutions moved into control. The big mutual funds, the pension funds, the bank-administered trusts, the insurers, the foundations, took over an increasing share of the trading.

Not only were these institutions growing in size; they were adjusting to the swinging new ways. They were trading more often, sometimes turning over their entire portfolios within a year's time.

Suddenly the mice of men and women who had ventured into the marketplace for the first time found they were playing a game with excited elephants. And the elephants herded: they piled on and off the same stocks at the same time.

Eventually the individual investor found that such concentrated power could strip him of hundreds and thousands of dollars if he just failed to look at the quotations for a day or so. He pulled out.

Mental disorders hereditary

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Researchers say they have amassed conclusive evidence that most schizophrenia is caused by chemical imbalances in the brain and tends to be hereditary.

"We now have a steady stream of new data and information instead of just a simplistic theory," said Dr. William E. Bunney of the National Institute of Mental Health during a conference here.

Dr. Seymour Kety, a Harvard University psychopharmacologist in whose honor the gathering was held, said there are three main lines of research contributing to the belief that mental disorders are biochemical in origin.

Katy said there is now "conclusive evidence" of hereditary influence in most schizophrenia and many cases of manic depression.

The psychiatric drug specialist said the evidence on schizophrenia comes from studies of adopted persons who developed the illness later in life. Scientists who contacted the patients' natural families — with whom the victims had no contact after their adoption — determined that the illness tended to run in the family, Kety said.

Researchers reason that if the illness is hereditary, it is chemical in origin because genes express themselves chemically.

Kety said researchers also have concluded that the transmission of nerve impulses from one nerve cell to another also is by chemical means rather than through electrical signals, as previously theorized. This in turn lends support to the theory that the chemical balance in the brain has a great effect on a person's mood and behavior, he said.

The third area of evidence of chemical origin, he said, is the successful development of drugs to allay psychotic behavior. The newer drugs have been effective in relieving psychotic symptoms in 80 per cent of schizophrenics and 70 per cent of depressive individuals, he said.

Kety, the first scientific director of the NIMH when it was established in 1951, was honored at the conference last week for his efforts in biological psychiatry. The conference was sponsored by the Intra-Science Research Foundation.

Scientists attending the conference have differed about which chemicals will be effective in treating psychotic diseases and about what chemicals are involved in the so-called imbalances.

Bunney, for example, said he and his colleague, Dr. Frederick Goodwin of the National Institute of Mental Health, have found weaknesses in the theories that dopamine or serotonin are regulators of brain chemistry, but the researchers agreed the imbalances are almost certainly of a chemical nature.

Kety cautioned his colleagues against letting setbacks in pinpointing the precise chemicals make them pessimistic. In view of the extreme complexity of the brain, he said, solutions won't be easy, but scientists can be encouraged they are on the right track.

See change in rubber demand

CLEVELAND (AP) — A research firm here predicts both world rubber demand and synthetic rubber's share of the market will slow during the next decade.

"To 1985, natural rubber is expected to make gains over the synthetics, reversing the historic trend," said Predicasts, Inc., a business information and research operation centered here.

The firm says synthetics accounted for 68 per cent of the production during the 1972-1974 period because of relatively low prices, stable supply and development of specialties while the lack of these factors hampered natural rubber.

Annual growth of rubber production worldwide during the period averaged 7 per cent, but world demand will slump to 5 per cent during the next 10 years, it says.

The company predicts production of natural rubber will total 6.9 million metric tons by 1985 with synthetic production totaling an additional 12.1 million metric tons.

But it said that synthetic rubber production will be strongest in developing countries as they establish facilities to accommodate new markets.

Yet the total tire production by 1985 will nearly have doubled, exceeding one billion units compared with the about 599.4 million produced during the 1972-74 period, the company said.

It also predicted replacement tire demand will continue to increase relative to total production.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — Jazz is a rarely heard form of music on prime-time commercial TV. But Howard Cosell, of all people, is giving the nation a taste of jazz Saturday night on his ABC variety show.

Even more surprising is that his guest, while well-known to jazz fans, isn't a commercial TV "name." He's Chuck Mangione, a young flugelhornist, pianist, composer and arranger who calls Rochester, N.Y., home.

He and his quartet are appearing with vocalist Esther Satterfield, with whom he's appeared in concerts and recorded several albums that combine melodic modern jazz with symphonic orchestra backing.

Mangione, 35, has appeared on public TV, the first shot being a critically cheered 1970 special called "Friends and Love," recorded with the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra.

But the Cosell show is only his fourth commercial TV appearance. His first, on the syndicated Merv Griffin show late last year, was unique in one major respect — the time allotted his performance on the program.

On most commercial shows, particularly talk shows, musicians are asked to play quickly, then depart. The theory is that viewers get bored easily. And those commercials, of course, must be aired.

But Mangione said that on Griffin's show, where he was backed by a symphonic-size orchestra, he got 12 uninterrupted minutes for his "Land of Make Believe," an instrumental and vocal work he and Miss Satterfield had recorded with Canada's Hamilton Philharmonic.

Twelve straight minutes of music on a talk show is considered heresy. So how'd it happen?

Well, Mangione said he'd heard from members of Griffin's band that the star liked his music, particularly his "Land of Make Believe" album. He said he'd also heard that Griffin wanted him to appear on his show.

Nothing immediately materialized, he said, so one day he went to the studio where the show is taped to at least meet the guy.

He said he saw Griffin nodding around on a piano and at first didn't want to bother him. But a mutual friend insisted they meet.

Whereupon "Merv jumped off the piano bench," Mangione recalled, "and said, 'You know, you've cost me so much money. I've bought that album for so many people.'"

He said Griffin, after asking what size orchestra he'd like for backing, asked the producer of same, "How long have we been on camera without going to a commercial?"

"And the guy said, 'For talk, we've been on 15 minutes.' Then Merv asked me, 'How long does 'Land of Make Believe' run?' I said the recorded version ran 11 minutes and 22 seconds."

"He said, 'Let's do the whole thing.' So he was the one who instigated doing the piece. He really loved and believed in it."

Honors awarded to entertainers

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Wayne Newton and Ann-Margaret were named the top male and female performers in the fifth annual Las Vegas Entertainment Awards.

Don Rickles and Joan Rivers were named best male and female comedians, while comedian Gabriel Kaplan was selected best supporting act of the year.

Singers Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme were named the top musical variety act of the year.

Redford look-alike admits to hoax

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — They loved Rick Bryson in Dekalb, Ill. Thousands cheered him in Des Moines, Iowa. It all began when someone said, "Pssst, that's Robert Redford."

Bryson was in Dekalb as a booster for the Long Beach State football team when someone mistook him for the movie star.

"I just decided to carry it off," the 30-year-old insurance agent said in an interview Wednesday. "Word spread through the stadium that I was Robert Redford, and at halftime they introduced me."

Bryson had been mistaken for Redford many times before, but he had always denied it. "But what could I do? There were 20,000 fans watching and screaming. I couldn't deny it."

On a recent trip with the football team to Des Moines, Bryson and his friends decided to give the Redford ruse another try.

Wearing a cowboy hat and dark glasses, Bryson checked into a hotel. One of his "promoters" whispered to a bystander, "You know, that's Robert Redford." Phone calls to the hotel asked for Redford.

It worked. Bryson wound up signing hundreds of autographs. He was given special transportation to the hotel, football stadium and airport. The Drake University band paid him a musical salute.

Highway patrol officers protected him from the crowds that gathered wherever he went. Reporters sought his pictures and interviews.

"What amazed me most was how fast the word spread, how the whole stadium got caught up in the masquerade," he said. "Girls actually started crying, trying to get a chance to talk to Redford."

Bryson, married and the father of a son, said he gave autograph hounds his own name, "but my signature is so bad anyway, nobody could tell."

Will he attempt the hoax again? "Who knows," he said. "I don't want to hurt anyone. But my lawyer says it is not illegal as long as I don't do it for personal gain, so the chances are good that I will try it again."

Bryson said he tried to tell Redford about the masquerade but "when I told his secretary about it, she just laughed. I think she thought it was a prank call."

Union Township PTO holds annual Christmas program

The Union Township Parent-Teacher Organization held its annual Christmas meeting this week at Miami Trace High School.

The organization represents Wilson, Chaffin and Wilson elementary schools, and students from each participated in the program.

"Love Lights the Christmas Tree" was presented by the seventh and eighth grade classes at Eber Junior High School. The program consisted of several Christmas carols, and Christy Swaney was featured in a solo dance. Accompanists were Joan Stahl and Cindy Wieland.

Wilson Elementary School's sixth graders presented "The Birth of Jesus, a play directed by Miss Anita Pruitt. The cast included Steve Grooms, Kelly Bennett, Laurie Stahl, Jeff Spilker and Julie Wilson.

Singing solo parts were Steve Wieland, Keri Wolfe and Charlene Williamson. Tambourine players were Kim Adams and Ricky Taylor.

First graders at Chaffin Elementary School presented a melody of Christmas songs and poems. They were directed by Mrs. Karl Harper, Mrs. Lee Marshall, Mrs. Harold Foster and Mrs. Michael Thompson.

The principal of each school was introduced, and a prize was awarded to the top salesman of raffle tickets at each school. . . The top salesmen were Katrina Wilson at Chaffin Elementary School, Dedee Valentine at Wilson Elementary School, and Paul Ellenberger at Eber Junior High School.

Those who won turkeys in the drawing were Pattie Putney, Mrs. La Donna Mattson, Debbie Wood, James Havens, Donald Graham and Roberta Wolfe.

Upcoming PTO events include the next meeting Feb. 9, a skating party March 18, and a meeting and awards program for biddy and junior high basketball March 22.

Patricia Hearst's Mom rips media

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's mother, who has been critical of the news media since her daughter's arrest, has indicated she still dislikes publicity.

As a federal court hearing ended Thursday without mention of a proposed gag order against trial participants, Catherine Hearst turned to a reporter and said, "No wonder they didn't discuss it. That's like closing the barn door after the horse is gone."

Mrs. Hearst, wife of San Francisco Examiner president Randolph A. Hearst, has called reporters "a bunch of ghouls" and told another daughter to avoid them because "they have dirty mouths."

Miss Hearst, 21, is scheduled to stand trial Jan. 26 on federal bank robbery charges.

Ohio hit by grisly crimes during 1975

BY ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Writer

The most grisly crime of 1975 in Ohio was not committed in a dark alley or ghetto. It carried no racial overtones and wasn't for sex. It was not the act of a person with a prior criminal record. It occurred when a family of 11 people gathered to celebrate Easter at the two-story framed home of Charity Ruppert along a tree-lined suburban street in Hamilton.

Before the holiday ended, the street became a focal point for the state's crime statistics. The house achieved the distinction of the site of the largest murder of a single family at one time in U.S. history.

James Ruppert, a quiet, diminutive man who usually kept to himself, suddenly was thrust in the foreground, labeled as the state's leading killer and one of the nation's most talked about criminals.

Ruppert, who admitted to the shooting of his mother, brother, sister-in-law and eight nieces and nephews, was found guilty of aggravated murder, but a split verdict by a three-judge panel prevented a death penalty from being imposed. He was sent to the Ohio Penitentiary for life.

Ruppert sat impassively, expressing little emotion during his three-week trial in which psychiatrists testified he began firing at his family with rifles after his brother made the seemingly innocent remark: "How's your Volkswagen?"

Half a country away and almost a month before the Ruppert shooting,

Robert Paul Sander of Cincinnati opened fire with a high-powered rifle at a shore resort, just south of the Oregon border.

Four persons were killed and three others wounded in the March 3 shooting in which police said Sander first opened fire outside the motel and then moved inside to the lobby where he again began shooting.

Thomas Eugene Creech of Fairfield is currently playing a numbers game with law enforcement officials. He claims he has killed 42 persons in eight years as a satanist and hired killer.

Ironically, he was convicted in Idaho on Oct. 22 for murdering two itinerant painters he claimed he didn't kill at all.

Authorities have expressed doubts about many claims that Creech has made of killings which include two in Nevada, two in Oregon, two in Idaho, and one each in Wyoming, Arizona and California.

Creech has been sentenced to hang for the killings in Idaho.

A 28-year-old ex-convict shot "anyone who got in his way," leaving two dead and nine wounded in Dayton. Police say Russell Lee Smith then raped two teenagers before killing himself in May.

One of those wounded in the shooting, which took place shortly after Smith accused another man of dating his girlfriend, said: "He was insanely shooting to massacre us. There was no mercy. He just kept on firing."

Within a 10-day span in September, death twice again headlined the front page in Dayton.

A witness told police that on a Friday afternoon, a man entered the office of the Dayton school superintendent and asked for Charles Glatt, an Ohio State University professor who had been appointed by the federal court to design a desegregation plan for the city schools.

The witness said the man then went to Glatt's office and asked "Are you Mr. Glatt?" When Glatt responded, the assailant was said to reply, "God is making me do this," fired three times, paused, fired twice more, paused and fired a final time.

The man was identified as Neal Bradley Long, who now faces murder charges.

Later that month, the body of a kidnapped businessman, whose son paid $400,000 for his release, was found along a rural road near Dayton.

The FBI said 67-year-old Lester C. Emoff, who owned three furniture stores in Dayton was shot in the back.

Three men face kidnap and murder charges in connection with Emoff's death.

In Cleveland, Edward O. Watkins made Oct. 29 a long day for police and six persons he held hostage in the west side branch of the Society National Bank.

The 56-year-old Watkins used a fake bomb to hold off police before finally giving up peacefully after a promise of medical care for his heart problem.

He was sentenced Dec. 2 to 20 years in prison after pleading guilty to the bank robbery. He also faces five years for bank robberies in California and 37 years imprisonment for parole violations.

Early December weekend bombings rocked the Youngstown area during a two-hour period starting at midnight Dec. 6.

Two women about to celebrate the holidays were murdered in the Cincinnati area.

Suzanne Candler, 19, was returning home to Lima from Cincinnati to spend Mother's Day when she was pulled over to the side of the road by what she thought was a policeman.

Her body was later found by the highway and police arrested James Thomas Curtis of Reading, who was convicted of aggravated murder.

Susan Gorman was last seen alive as she left her job Thanksgiving eve in Cincinnati. Her family received a $5,000 ransom call, but never heard instructions.

Her body was found Dec. 3 in a ditch near 25 miles south of Cincinnati.

A Middletown man was charged with the kidnapping.

Coast Guard may seek wreckage

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Coast Guard says a decision may be made this week whether to send divers or underwater television equipment to view the wreckage of the Edmund Fitzgerald on the bottom of Lake Superior.

A Coast Guard board of inquiry here is investigating the sinking of the ore carrier, which broke up and went down in 530 feet of water during a storm Nov. 10 with loss of all 29 aboard.

The board heard a Coast Guard official testify Thursday that he had never known anyone to escape a storm-battered, sinking Great Lakes ship by launching a lifeboat.

Norman Lenley, chief of the Coast Guard's survival systems branch, said he knew of two cases in which sailors escaped in life rafts, and in the two instances a total of only three sailors escaped.

Lenley called lifeboats the weakest part of a ship's survival system and said it takes at least 10 minutes to launch one, compared to three minutes for a raft.

He told the board the Fitzgerald's equipment included two 50-man lifeboats, two 25-man inflatable rafts and more life jackets than were required by Coast Guard regulations.

Searchers recovered one lifeboat and part of another, two rafts and 20 life jackets.

A former first mate aboard the Fitzgerald, Capt. Delmar Webster, testified that the bending and springing action which had been observed on the Fitzgerald were common to all large lake carriers.

A sailor who had served briefly on the Fitzgerald testified Wednesday that the 729-foot vessel would spring "like a diving board" in bad weather and quoted the ship's captain as saying the action sometimes scared him.

However, Webster said the Fitzgerald's behavior during a storm was not unusual.

Webster told the board that the ship carried no fathometer and that most lake vessels have none.

Observers have said the lack of a fathometer could be significant if the Fitzgerald passed too close to shoals off Caribou Island on its final voyage.

The hearing continued today.

Kissinger policy hit

CINCINNATI (AP) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's peace policy in the Middle East was labeled a "doctrine of surrender" similar to the appeasement of Hitler before World War II, by Dr. Alfred Gottschalk, president of Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion.

Gottschalk, just back from Israel, stopped short of calling for Kissinger's removal. He said he is not persuaded this is currently the right move.

"We need to be absolutely realistic about Soviet goals," in Israel, the Middle East and Africa, he told the seminary for Reform Jewish rabbis. "There is an anxiety in Israel for it is sensed that the close and historic ties between the United States and Israel are being impaired," he said.

Kissinger's policy of detente is wrong because the Kremlin "calls the shots" and the United States can only respond, Dr. Gottschalk said.

He said Kissinger must be shown that negotiating "through weakness is a tactical error" for which both the United States and Israel must pay.

Jail coffee too costly

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — The coffee ration has been slashed because of inflation and prisoners at the Butler County Jail will be getting ade drinks, iced tea and other cold substitutes.

Butler County Sheriff Harold Carpenter Thursday won approval to spend $1,646 for an ice machine because he wants to serve cold drinks to prisoners instead of ever more expensive coffee. "Coffee," the sheriff told the Butler

County Commissioners, "is reaching the point where it is no longer economical to serve it as often as we are now doing."

The jail has an average daily number of 125 prisoners who are served coffee at breakfast and dinner.

WOODEN SLEIGHS — Mrs. Nancy Cooper, a teacher at Wilson Elementary School, Kim Duncan, Greg Miller and volunteer Huey Aills are standing behind some of the sleighs which the class has been working on for the past four weeks.

Pupils prepare for holiday by making wooden sleighs

The special education class of Wilson Elementary School is getting ready for Christmas in a big way. The class has been working the past four weeks learning about hand tools by making wooden sleighs for Christmas.

Mrs. Nancy Cooper, a teacher at Wilson Elementary School, has enlisted the aid of Huey Aills, a custodian at Wilson Elementary School, to assist with the project. Aills has volunteered for four weeks during his free time to work with the students.

The class' interest in learning more about tools began as a result of a recent educational field trip to Mac Tools, Inc. in Washington C.H.

Aills showed the class how to trace a five-piece sleigh pattern on wood, cut out the parts using sabre and miter saws, and sand, nail and glue the pieces together. The sleighs were then painted white with red and green trim added.

There are 18 students in the special education class. The sleighs were the first projects of several arts and crafts projects which the students will participate in throughout the year.

Copperweld now Imetal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Copperweld Chairman Phillip H. Smith, who led his firm's sometimes bitter fight to avoid being taken over by Paris-based Societe Imetal, has welcomed Imetal as a major shareholder.

Imetal announced Thursday that it had acquired about 67 per cent of Copperweld's common stock upon termination of its tender offer. Later in the day, Smith issued a statement saying he feels Imetal made a solid investment in a healthy and growing company.

"The tender offer is completed and behind us, and now we are looking to the future," Smith said. "I am confident that Copperweld's growth is going to continue just as it has in the past, and we now welcome Imetal as an important shareholder."

Smith said that he and all other officers would remain with the firm, and another Copperweld spokesman indicated that Imetal's control is not yet total.

"This does nothing to change our basic position that we are an independent company," the spokesman said. "We just happen to have one huge shareholder."

Nurse named to hospital post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After 16 years work at Massillon State Hospital, Dorothy Demharter will take over as acting superintendent Dec. 15, the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation says.

Mrs. Demharter, a nurse, has been acting assistant superintendent under Charles Ogle, who is returning to Columbus to resume his post as chief of the department's geriatric services.

DOWNTOWN WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE

November report shows 772 cases probed by police

Washington C.H. police officers during the month of November logged 53 criminal arrests, 98 traffic arrests and investigated a total of 772 incidents, according to the monthly report prepared by Police Chief Rodman Scott.

Of the 722 incidents the most common were incidents of larceny, 55; domestic quarrels, 40; cases of property destruction, 29; burglaries, 24; fires, 15; and fraudulent checks, 15.

During the month the department arrested 10 persons for disorderly conduct, nine for passing bad checks, six for petty theft, four for assault and three for property destruction.

The 53 criminal arrests for November, 1975 is an increase from the 46 arrests for the same period in 1974.

Speeding topped the list of traffic offenses during the month with 20 arrested offenders. Driving while intoxicated and failure to yield right of way resulted in 12 arrests in each category. Nine persons were arrested for failing to maintain an assured clear distance ahead and seven persons were arrested for reckless operation.

The 98 arrests for traffic violations during November brings the total to 782 so far this year. The total for 1974 stood at 781 at this time.

Property damage resulting from auto mishaps during the month was estimated by Chief Scott at $26,445, bringing the total so far this year to $244,337. Damage for November, 1974 was $19,444.

Value of property reported stolen during the month totaled $13,030.89. Value of property recovered was $946.98.

Vandalism was responsible for an estimated $591 in November.

Rhodes urges tax freeze

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A freeze on any real estate taxes not agreed to by all Ohioans is being sought by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

In a letter dated Dec. 10, Rhodes asked Charles S. Lopeman, chairman of the state Board of Tax Appeals, to explore how such a moratorium could be instituted.

Rhodes said property taxes can be increased by raising the tax rate or the value of property. He said while residents vote on rate hikes, the value of property in the state will have grown $1.25 billion from 1972 to 1977 without voter approval.

He blamed inflation and Supreme Court decisions ordering the Board of Tax Appeals to equalize tax burdens across the country for the increase.

The pinch on homeowners is greater because of the slumping economy, he said.

"Because the house next door sells for a high price doesn't give the taxpayer more money to pay higher taxes on his home," Rhodes wrote.

Sakharov rips U.N. over racism

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Nobel Peace Prize winner Andrei Sakharov says the U.N. General Assembly resolution classifying Zionism as a form of racism "dealt the prestige of the United Nations a hard blow."

"All impartial persons know that Zionism is the ideology of a national rebirth of the Jewish people ... and that this ideology is not directed against any other people," the fighter for human rights in the Soviet Union said in the lecture the Peace Prize winner gives every year.

Sakharov's 6,000-word speech was read Thursday night by his wife, Yelena, because the Soviet government would not let him come to Oslo for the award ceremonies Wednesday and Thursday. Mrs. Sakharov was in Italy for medical treatment when the award to her husband was announced.

Sakharov attributed the anti-Zionism resolution to "insufficient sense of responsibility among the leaders of some of the younger member-nations." But he expressed the belief that the United Nations may some day play a "worthy role in the life of mankind."

A nuclear physicist who took a leading part in the development of the Soviet hydrogen bomb, Sakharov said scientific and technological progress is the only way to solve the world's major problems.

"Progress is indispensable, and to bring it to a halt would involve the decline and fall of our civilization," he declared. But he warned that industrial and technological progress also "leads to ominous changes in the environment in which we live and the exhaustion of our natural resources."

He said the world must also make "widespread use of the results of medical research in all its branches ... no matter what potential dangers lurk there ... and the undesirable social consequences of this research."

Science should also move ahead with efforts to intercept signals from civilizations outside the earth, Sakharov asserted.

"The chance of experiments of this kind proving successful are probably small, but precisely for this reason the results may well be tremendous," he added.

Sakharov called for the release of all political prisoners in all nations, and he said many thousands of Soviet citizens are persecuted for their beliefs.

He charged that there has been "absolutely no real improvement" in the field of human rights in the Soviet Union since the Soviet government signed the Helsinki declaration last summer, in which the signatories pledged to further the civil rights of their citizens.

Calling for "reform, not revolution," Sakharov said peace, progress and human rights "are indissolubly linked to one another: it is impossible to achieve one of these goals if the other two are ignored."

Court News

DIVORCE GRANTED

Maxine Landrum, 704 Blackstone St., has been granted a divorce in Common Pleas Court from Buddy Landrum, Indianapolis, Ind., on grounds that the parties have been separated for more than two years. The parties have five children the issue of their marriage, but all are emancipated.

DISSOLUTION GRANTED

Darel C. Riley, Rt. 3, Greenfield, and Rebecca L. Riley, Greenfield, have been granted a dissolution of their marriage. Their interests were divided in accordance with their separation agreement.

DIVORCE ACTIONS DISMISSED

The divorce action filed in Common Pleas Court by Pamela Mitchell, Rt. 2, Leesburg, against William L. Mitchell has been dismissed at the request of the plaintiff.

The divorce action filed by Patricia M. Osborne, 1131 Campbell St., against Fred H. Osborne has been dismissed at the request of the parties.

The divorce action filed by Helen E. McClain, 624 E. Paint St., against Wayne D. McClain has been dismissed at the request of the plaintiff.

DISSOLUTION ACTIONS DISMISSED

The petition for dissolution of marriage filed in Common Pleas Court Ricky A. Smith, 227 E. Elm St., and Natalie Smith, 523 Leesburg Ave., has been dismissed at their request.

The petition for dissolution filed by Nina K. Mummey, 412 Gibbs Ave., and Rodger D. Mummey of Wilmington has been dismissed by the court for lack of prosecution.

CIVIL JUDGMENT

A judgment and order to sell has been issued in Common Pleas Court in a delinquent tax case filed against Joseph L. Crosswhite, Detroit, Mich., et al. The court found that the defendant was delinquent in tax payments in the amount of $1,751 on part of lot 89 in the Pavey Addition. The property will be sold at sheriff's auction. The suit was filed by Harold Hise, Fayette County treasurer.

PARTITION ORDER

A partition of property has been ordered in the suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Ralph Jones, 1572 Dennis Road, against other heirs of the estate of Pearl Jones, deceased. The plaintiff owns a two-twenty-sevenths interest in lot 128 of the East End Improvement Co. Addition, and the court ordered that the property be partitioned or sold at auction and the proceeds divided among the heirs.

FORECLOSURE DISMISSED

A foreclosure action filed in Common Pleas Court by the First National Bank of Springfield against Patrick Sheridan, 425 Lewis St., has been dismissed at the request of the parties. The suit was settled by the parties and dismissed with prejudice.

Ford facing tough choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor John Dunlop says President Ford is under tremendous political pressure to veto a controversial construction site picketing bill that Ford earlier had personally endorsed.

And Senate conservatives, who had threatened a filibuster to block final action on the measure, agreed to permit a vote on Monday after the House approved the legislation on a 229 to 189 vote.

The bill is considered by many Republicans to be Ford's No. 1 current political headache, even though the measure has been around Congress for 25 years and received virtually no public attention.

Conservatives pushing Ford to veto it believe their hand may be strengthened by a new Gallup Poll showing conservative challenger Ronald Reagan leading the President by 40 to 32 per cent among Republicans.

The bill would give building trade and construction unions the power they have long sought to shut down an entire construction site in the event of a dispute with only one subcontractor.

Dunlop acknowledged, in an appearance Thursday at the National Press Club, that pressure for a veto is coming from some construction industry employers, some management representatives "and from the politicians in various states around the country."

He noted that he had pushed for its approval earlier "on the President's personal instructions," but he said that he has no indication now whether the President will sign it.

Four mishaps checked

A Bloomingburg man was cited for failing to yield right of way when he became involved in an accident in the 1100 block of S. Fayette Street at 1:19 p.m. Thursday.

City police reported the mishap involved cars driven by Willard N. Parrett, 56, Camp Grove Road and Ralph T. Ladd, 71, Bloomingburg. Ladd was the driver cited.

Police investigated one additional accident and the Fayette County Sheriff's department reported two traffic mishaps.

An accident involving a truck driven by Wilbur E. Pendergraft, 71, U.S. 22, and a car driven by William Wallace, 69, Bloomingburg, occurred at the Pennington Bread plant entrance on Clinton Avenue at 2:54 p.m. Thursday.

Two larcenies checked

Both Washington C.H. police and Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported larcenies today.

A strand of Christmas lights valued at $9 was stolen from a brush outside the John Allbright residence, 617 Eastern Ave., sometime between 6:30 p.m. Wednesday and 1 a.m. Thursday, police reported.

Pomona Grange holds meeting

MADISON MILLS — The Pomona Grange met Thursday night in the Madison Goodwill Grange Hall, Madison Mills. Presiding over the Christmas meeting was Nathaniel Tway.

Reports were received from representatives of the subordinate Granges. Clarence Taylor was the only representative of the Marshall Grange, Gary Hidy reported for the Madison Grange which had 11 present, and Winfred Morgan gave the Forest Shade

Police issued no citations.

A car driven by Wayne E. Dozier, 22, Columbus, traveled off Ohio 734, sevenths of a mile east of the Pleasant-view Road intersection, at 7 p.m. Thursday when headlights from oncoming traffic blinded him, according to sheriff's deputies. Dozier traveled into a ditch and struck a fence belonging to Kenneth Bryan, Jamestown. Damage was moderate, but he was uninjured.

A car driven by Larry R. Conley, 20, U.S. 35-S, was sideswiped at 8:40 p.m. Thursday by an unidentified driver while traveling east of the CCC-Highway-W after leaving the Seaway store parking lot. Conley was uninjured and investigation by sheriff's deputies is continuing.

Five jump traps belonging to Donald H. Cooper, Bloomingburg, were stolen from his farm lot on Blue Road, sometime between 8 a.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. Thursday, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported.

Both law enforcement departments are investigating the thefts.

A zone of weather change east-west across Ohio today separated cold air to the north—with temperatures in the teens in northern Michigan and warm air to the south—with readings in the 50s in Tennessee.

The transition is quite gradual but it is a region which generates gentle rain, light snow or drizzle.

This pattern was expected to remain unchanged through Saturday, so it will be cloudy in Ohio with periods of light rain, drizzle and possibly a little light snow. Temperatures will be generally in the 40s Saturday and in the 30s tonight.

It was cloudy last night in Ohio. Skies which had cleared in the south Thursday clouded in again and in the north drizzle and some light snow fell. Early morning temperatures showed a range from 33 at Toledo, Mansfield and Youngstown to 51 degrees at Cincinnati.

A chance of rain or snow Sunday, changing to snow flurries Monday.

Name Kitty Hawk award recipient

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Air Force Lt. Gen. James T. Stewart has been named a recipient of the 1975 Kitty Hawk award of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, a spokesman for Wright-Patterson Air Force Base says.

Stewart was selected as the military recipient of the 3-foot high, 25-pound hourglass for contributions to aviation. Stewart helped pioneer long-range cruise control and dive-bomb delivery of nuclear weapons from jets.

Quality of American life eyed

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "In the past century we built America into history's richest society," said the speaker. "In the next century, we will build in America history's quality society."

The speaker was not the first to articulate what many people now believe and hope will be the underlying theme of the country's third century, the translation of material riches into a better life for people.

Irving S. Shapiro, nevertheless, is perhaps the corporate executive who has most clearly presented the theme in terms of the challenge to business. He is chairman of E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

In an address to the N.Y. Board of Trade a few days ago, Shapiro spoke remarkably clearly about topics on which businessmen often are accused of substituting rhetoric for sincerity, and trying to cover their failures with criticism.

"A lot of good, a lot of sound progress," he said, is going to emerge from our present confrontation with economic realities, the realization that some of our institutions are failing, that energy costs are rising, that inflation is likely to be persistent, that population growth is slowing.

Forced to recognize that the past cannot be the sole model for the future, Americans will use their talents, their dedication, their spirit, their creativity to meet the new challenges, he said.

And what are they? He listed these, among others:

"We must complete the substantial progress made in our effort toward complete racial and sexual equality of opportunity, so that all individuals can be judged and advanced on the merits of capabilities alone.

"Industry and communities and individuals must effectively control pollution, where so much tangible progress has already been made.

"With a more selective investment program, geared to new market demands as well as to capital restraints, we should strive to bring more stability to the economic cycle, moderating the violent gyrations that bring personal hardship to many innocent victims....

"We must recognize the continuing revolution in consumer expectations, and respond with products of durability, utility and value, fully tested for safety and performance by manufacturers of integrity.

"Business must get its ethical house in order.... Shoddy ethical and moral performances by a small number of businessmen have tarred all business people."

In seeking such quality goals, "in adjusting to new economic realities," said Shapiro, "I see four specific areas in which business and industry can profitably work to ease our transition to new objectives."

1. "We employers must intensify our sensitivity to the aspirations and personal goals of our people, whose attitudes can help or hamper our economic evolution."

2. Business must develop a more effective content in communicating with the public, the news media and public officials, in order to "moderate misconceptions and overexpectations that plague us."

3. A better working relationship must be built between law and science, "in order to smooth the way for sound technological answers to the new public concerns that are pressing in on industry's future.

4. "We need to sit down with government and on the merits — contributing our best objective exercise — help devise sound programs that will meet the goal of providing better protection for the American public."

Hazard pay being sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees has asked the state to implement hazardous duty pay supplements for employees in state mental institutions.

AFSCME area director William Garmes made the request in a letter to Dr. Timothy Moritz, director of the Department of Mental Health and Retardation.

Garmes said the supplemental pay should be provided because the risk of physical injury is so high in the mental institutions.

Hazardous duty pay supplements are allowed under a law signed last summer by Gov. James Rhodes.

Garmes said in the letter that the department's records of workmen's compensation claims for employees hurt while dealing with mentally disturbed patients will be sufficient evidence to support the request.

Egg-cholesterol hassle heats up

By JOHN MORGANTHALER

Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Will eating eggs increase your chance of a heart attack?

Should you switch to some product such as Egg Beater or Second Nature? Or is the whole eggs-increase-cholesterol argument wrong?

New research at the University of California at Los Angeles seems to say eggs won't hurt you if you're healthy and don't have a cholesterol problem — which most people don't.

"If the good Lord hadn't intended for us to eat good eggs, unadulterated, He'd have changed them," says Carlin Hooper, one of San Diego County's biggest egg producers.

"The egg yolk is the single highest source of cholesterol in the diet," said Ben Patrusky, chief of science information for the American Heart Association. That group recommends people eat no more than three eggs a week.

"Nonsense. There is absolutely no basis for saying that," said Florence Coats, a spokesman for the National Commission on Egg Nutrition, a producer group.

The commission is awaiting decisions by two federal judges, in Washington and Chicago, on what it can say in ads about eggs and cholesterol, which is a fat-soluble substance in cells and body fluids. People who have heart attacks often have too much of it.

The Federal Trade Commission, at the urging of the heart association, brought suit to stop the producer from saying in ads that "There is no scientific evidence that eating eggs contributes to heart attacks."

Since then the egg men changed their ads to substitute "scientific proof" for "scientific evidence."

At a hearing in Washington, both sides marshaled prestigious heart doctors and nutritionists to back them up.

Meantime, most egg producers say they are having one of the worst, if not the worst, year in history. They lost money for months but are back to breaking even at about 43 cents a dozen.

"It's the worst year I can ever remember," said W. R. Cramer, who has nearly 400,000 chickens in Riverside County and has been in the egg business for 25 years. He figures his loss for the year might hit $200,000 or 50 cents a bird.

He blamed rising costs and the cholesterol scare.

"Cholesterol is a problem because certain manufacturers want to play on it," Cramer said. "I mean the corn oil people."

He noted that California's egg producers are spending about $1 million a year for advertising and research to combat the cholesterol scare.

"But that's just a drop in the bucket," complained Cramer. "When Fleischmann's hits the tube for Egg Beater they go $5 million at a time."

"That's very, very high," said a spokesman for Standard Brands, maker of both Fleischmann's margarine and Egg Beater.

But he wouldn't say how much is being spent to promote the product, which is 83 per cent egg whites, with synthetic yolks and corn oil.

Yule stamps could have problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year's Christmas stamps could lead to problems if they are used on mail sent to foreign countries, the Postal Service says.

The potential problem stems from the absence of any monetary denomination on this year's two Christmas stamps.

Regulations of the Universal Postal Union, a United Nations agency, say that all countries should print a denomination on their postage stamps.

However, at the time the Postal Service began printing this year's Christmas stamps it did not know what the cost of mailing a letter would be during the holiday season, since rate increases were being considered.

For that reason, it printed stamps without denominations and said they would be sold before Christmas at whatever rate prevailed for first class letters.

"We anticipated this situation and at the time we began printing the Christmas stamps we asked every country that is a member of the Universal Postal Union if they would accept the stamps without a denomination," a Postal Service spokeswoman said Wednesday.

"Every country said they would accept mail with the stamps. And since they have been in use we have had no problems with them," she said.

Heavy league schedule faces SCOL cage teams

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Three league basketball games in seven days face each of the South Central Ohio League members, and the opening contests begin tonight.

League leaders Washington C.H. and Circleville will play on home courts tonight. The Blue Lions will entertain Greenfield McClain while the Tigers take on Wilmington.

A surprisingly tough Hillsboro squad will visit Miami Trace and league cellar-dwellers, Madison Plains and Unioto, square off at London.

GREENFIELD AT WASHINGTON

Last season the McClain Tigers topped the Blue Lions three times which was exactly how many games the two teams played against each other.

No doubt, the veteran Court House squad remembers those three losses including the defeat in the finals of the sectional tournament at Unioto which ended the Blue Lions season.

If either of the two teams were picked to sweep the scheduled two-game slate this year, the Blue Lions would be the likely choice.

Four starters are back from last season and they have had nearly a year to think about those three losses to the Tigers.

Greenfield on the other hand has only one starter returning, but he is a good one in center Steve Harvey.

The Blue Lions will have their hands full with coach Sam Snyder's squad after only having played the league's two weaker teams, Madison Plains and Unioto, so far this season.

Snyder thought his Tigers gave away last week's game to Circleville hitting only 22 per cent from the field and committing 27 turnovers.

If the Tigers improve on those mistakes, the Blue Lions are in for a real test.

WILMINGTON AT CIRCLEVILLE

Wilmington's run-and-gun offense should find the going tough against the Circleville defense tonight, and you can bet Tiger coach Jim Bailey has been explaining the finer points of stopping a 6-3 forward named Tony Berlin.

Berlin is the Hurricane's big offensive threat — he leads the league in scoring with a 34.5 average — but sophomore Gary Williams is the only other Wilmington player that needs special attention.

Defense will be the key to this game, and Circleville plays defense a lot while Wilmington plays it seldom.

HILLSBORO AT MIAMI TRACE

Hillsboro could be listed as an early season surprise in the SCOL. The Indians are fresh from beating a respected Leesburg Fairfield team which returned four starters from last season's 18-2 squad.

Miami Trace is also fresh from a win, but the Panthers will have to stop the Indian big men. Coach John Woolums plans to do that with speed and a few surprises he said his Panthers have.

Another key to the contest is the Indians inexperience on a large court which the Panthers play on. If Miami Trace can come out strong in the early going, Hillsboro may never recover.

This will be the most evenly matched game of the evening.

UNIOTO AT MADISON PLAINS

Although the two teams possess identical 0-2 league records, Madison Plains is by far the better team.

After the Golden Eagles tall front line finishes with the inexperienced Shermans, Unioto will be sitting all alone in the league cellar

	League		Overall
Circleville	2	0	3	0
Washington C.H.	2	0	2	0
Greenfield	1	1	2	1
Hillsboro	1	1	2	1
Wilmington	1	1	1	2

HE CAN'T PLAY — Freshman Mike Borden was told that he could not play basketball after he made the Junior varsity team at Ohio University in Athens, when doctors found that Borden has a glass eye. He is a graduate of the Fairborn High School and was his team's Most Valuable Player two years in a row.

Yankees trade Bonds, Medich

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees started the winter baseball meetings by unloading superstar Bobby Bonds in the first of two trades designed to give the team a new player image to go with its refurbished stadium.

The question is whether the Yanks got their money's worth in deals Thursday with the California Angels and Pittsburgh Pirates. They gave up Bonds and popular pitcher Doc Medich. In return, they got a swift outfielder in Mickey Rivers, and three pitchers, Ed Figueroa, Ken Brett and Dock Ellis, and infielder Willie Randolph.

Visibly shaken by the trade, Bonds said: "The next time something like this happens, I'll want to know what's going on and why before I leave. It's going to have to be with my consent, 'cause otherwise I'm not going."

"I tried to give the Yanks everything I had last year. The most disappointing thing was not being able to play the entire year healthy. I played hurt since June and still hit 32 homers. That's a depressing thing, that I contributed to the club and now I'm gone."

The wheeling and dealing by New York was the big news at the fifth day of the meetings, which also brought the announcement that the National League would continue to finance the financially troubled San Francisco Giants until Dec. 31. The league expects the Giants to be sold to one of a number of bidders, according to League President Charles Feeney.

Also, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn in a report after the joint meetings of the major leagues, said that forebearance, not a law suit, will bring the game back to Seattle. And he declared that the philosophy of baseball is that one of the teams in the San Francisco Bay Area, the San Francisco Giants or Oakland A's must move. He wouldn't say which one.

The general consensus on the Yankees' two big deals was that they helped themselves on the trade that sent the slugging Bonds to the Angels for Rivers and Figueroa. The jury was out on the swap with the Pirates that brought the 21-year-old Randolph, untested as a major leaguer, the controversial Ellis, and Brett, who has an elbow ailment that could end his career on any pitch.

The big surprise was moving Bonds, who came to the Yankees last year from the Giants for Bobby Murcer. Bonds played hurt most of last season, but still managed to hit .270 with 32 home runs, 85 RBI, and 30 stolen bases. He set a major league record with his 30 homer-30 stolen base accomplishment for the third straight year.

Steelers host Bengals Saturday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two spots in the National Football League playoffs plus one division title could be decided Saturday when the Pittsburgh Steelers host the Cincinnati Bengals in a nationally televised game.

For the Steelers, 11-1, it's a chance to nail down the Central Division title in the American Football Conference and the homefield advantage in the playoffs that goes with it.

For the Bengals, 10-2 and a game behind division-leading Pittsburgh, a victory would guarantee at least a wild-card berth in the playoffs and give them a shot at the division title.

That seems like a lot to be riding on one game, but there may be less there than meets the eye. Consider the possibilities:

—If the Steelers lose, they can still win the division title by defeating Los Angeles next week, regardless of how Cincinnati fares in its final game against San Diego.

—If the Bengals lose, they can still become the AFC wildcard team by defeating San Diego, regardless of how Miami and Baltimore, the only other teams in the running, do in their final two games.

—In the unlikely event of a tie, the Steelers would be the division champs and the Bengals would be the conference wild-card team regardless of how anyone else does the rest of the year.

The Steelers, eight-point favorites Saturday, have already guaranteed themselves at least a wild-card playoff slot.

If Pittsburgh and Cincinnati should wind up with identical records at the end of the season, the NFL's tie-breaking procedure would award the Steelers the division title because they have fewer losses within the division.

Take away all the "if's" and what's at stake for the Bengals is a measure of revenge for a 30-24 defeat at the hands of the Steelers earlier this year. For the Steelers it's the division title and the homefield playoff advantage.

Revenge and the honor that goes with the title are difficult to place a value on. And for the Steelers, at least, the home field has not proven crucial.

The defending Super Bowl champs have won ten in a row on the road.

"Our team is inspired by crowd noise," says Coach Chuck Noll, "any crowd noise. If we get a lot of good crowd noise here we'd be just as well here."

Three years ago, as the Steelers won the AFC Central Division for their first title of any kind in 40 years, Three Rivers Stadium provided plenty of noise. But lately the fans have quieted down, apparently growing used to success.

Both teams are in pretty good physical shape going into Saturday's game with only one injury of note apiece.

Cincinnati corner back Lemar Parrish has a hamstring injury and it's questionable whether he'll start. Noll says he won't be sure of the status of defensive tackle Joe Greene, who has been slow to recover from a pinched nerve in his neck and a groin injury, until just before game time.

Since the start of division play five years ago, the Steelers and Bengals have developed a spirited rivalry. But Cincinnati has never managed to win in five trips to Pittsburgh.

Wrestling lacks fan support

The Miami Trace wrestling team opened its season Wednesday night amid the cheers of a throng of high school students. The problem was that these students came 50 miles to Miami Trace to cheer for the visiting team.

Several remarks were overheard at the school Wednesday stating that this was one of the largest crowds to attend a Miami Trace wrestling match even when the Springfield Northeastern fans — which formed a highly vocal minority — were discounted.

Admittedly, the hometown crowd was large enough to be termed "unembarrassing", but the numbers were far below those of a basketball crowd — a quick estimation would say far less than one-tenth the number of students and fans who attend basketball games at Miami Trace.

Why does the Miami Trace wrestling program lack fan support? It can't be that the sport itself is boring and dull. I find wrestling exciting and obviously so did the cheering group from Springfield, who even brought cheerleaders.

Some high schools pack auditoriums for its wrestling matches, and on the collegiate level — most notably at Big Eight schools — wrestling nearly outdraws the basketball games. And, at Iowa State University the wrestling team does outdraw the basketball team. Two years ago nearly 15,000 fans turned out for Iowa State matches.

Maybe the type of wrestling on the high school college level is equated with the phoney theatrics of professional wrestling which unfortunately graces Ohio auditoriums throughout the year.

This probably isn't the problem either, because there are no doubt more pro wrestling fans — it is said to say — in this area than amateur wrestling fans.

If you thrill to a flying drop kick or an airplane spin don't bother to show up for a high school match. I'm afraid you would be greatly disappointed.

High School wrestling is for athletes of all sizes and it is a very technical sport that doesn't rely completely on strength.

Good wrestlers must be able to think as well as be in good enough condition to wrestle for six minutes. If you think six minutes doesn't sound like a long time, ask any high school wrestler how tired he gets in just one minute. It is one of, if not the most, strenuous sports offered on the high school level.

If it isn't boring and it employs dedicated athletes — 28 at Miami Trace to be exact — why is attendance so low for the matches?

I think it is because the relatively new sport isn't understood by the local sports fans.

Some schools have a night set aside for the wrestling team to be introduced and demonstrate the various techniques while explaining the rules and scoring.

Even if such a "meet the team night" isn't introduced by Miami Trace, a person would only need to view a few individual matches to grasp the basic rules and objectives of the sport.

The Panthers next home meet is scheduled for Jan. 7 against Wilmington with the reserve matches beginning at 5 p.m. and the varsity beginning at about 6:30 p.m.

Tough MAC schedule set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Western Michigan, the favorite to win the Mid-American Conference this season, has matched its best start in 23 seasons.

Still, Eldon Miller, the Broncos' young, intense coach, sees flaws.

"We need to improve our ability to handle half-court zone pressure defense and be more consistent with our defense," said the coach of the 4-0 Broncos

Western Michigan, posting the best early season nonconference record among the conference's 10 members, runs into a difficult three days. The Broncos entertain Michigan State of the Big Ten Saturday afternoon and tonight independent Detroit Monday night.

Eastern Michigan and Ball State, the only other undefeated MAC representatives, face big assignments, too. The Hurons visit Wichita State tonight while Ball State takes on big rival Indiana State in Indianapolis Saturday.

Miami, expected to be Western Michigan's principal title challenger, takes Saturday off after losing two of its four starts to Cincinnati and Kentucky. Toledo also is idle this weekend.

Kent State plunges into the first tournament play of the young season. The Flashes (1-2) are paired with Fordham tonight in the first round of the Marshall Invitational. Marshall goes against Xavier in the other contest. The winners and losers return Saturday.

In other games Saturday, defending MAC champion Central Michigan (2-1) is at San Jose State, Northern Illinois (1-3) at North Carolina-Charlotte and Ohio University (1-3) at Pittsburgh.

Church League

Two lopsided games highlighted the Community Education Church League Basketball action Thursday night at the Washington Middle School.

Phil Bihl's 32-point performance paced the Knights of Columbus over Southside, 102-39, and Gregg St. breezed by McNair, 69-37.

Effort brought prize Archie says

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Griffin said Thursday night his history-making feat of winning two Heisman Trophies proves that "no goal is unattainable and no standard too high to reach if you're willing to put out an effort."

Ohio State's record-breaking running back formally accepted his second consecutive Heisman award at a $50-a-plate dinner and said he hoped "other young men and women will see the great American dream as something we can all share."

In an 11-minute acceptance speech at what one speaker jokingly termed "the second annual Archie Griffin testimonial dinner," Griffin said his emotion at becoming the first player to win the Heisman twice "far surpasses the feeling of a year ago."

"Not many people expected me to win the Heisman a second time and not many people expected Ohio State to win the national championship. I want that better than ever," he said.

The Buckeyes are the nation's No. 1-ranked college football team and seem certain to win the national championship if they defeat UCLA in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

Bernard Jackson
Bengals surprise

CINCINNATI (AP) — Paul Brown calls it one of the best trades he never made.

"The guys kid me that Paul Brown tried to get rid of me— and couldn't," says Bernard Jackson, who has emerged as a major surprise for the playoff-minded Cincinnati Bengals.

The fourth-year defensive back from Washington State was traded to Detroit in August, but the deal fell through when Jackson failed to pass the physical.

"They said he had bad knees," said Brown. "I think it was a case of a doctor being concerned about the malpractice issue."

Jackson repacked his bags, returned to Cincinnati and won a starting position as weak safety.

"He's done an excellent job," said Brown Thursday as the Bengals prepared for their showdown with the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday. "It's a great example of the old axiom that sometimes the best trade is the one you never make."

Jackson, who was a recordsetting running back at WSU and broke O. J. Simpson's single game rushing record in the Pacific Eight Conference, has won respect in Cincinnati's stingy secondary.

"I always felt there were some doubts that I could play defense," said Jackson. "I think I've shown them that I can."

He shares team leadership with five interceptions and has one of the best kickoff return marks in the National Football League, returning 23 for 551 yards and a 23.9 average.

Brown says the trade with Detroit "wasn't a case of Bernard not being good enough to play here. It boiled down to whether we could keep six or seven down linemen. We decided to let a defensive back go and Detroit needed one bad. They had a place for him, a starting job."

Set to snap losing streak

Buckeyes to face Catamounts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The fact Vermont's Catamounts bid for their fifth basketball victory in six games at Ohio State Saturday night doesn't worry Buckeye Coach Fred Taylor.

"We're more concerned with what we're doing than somebody else," said Taylor, unhappy over Ohio State's two opening setbacks on the road.

In search of that first victory, Taylor may shake up his regular unit. Mike Daugherty, a 6-foot-3 junior transfer from Georgia Tech, could replace 6-6 Clance Hammond at one of the forwards.

Hammond has only five rebounds and 15 points in his two starts and Taylor said, "We're getting mismatched in the corners so far."

Mark Bayless, who started most of last season as a freshman, has rejoined the team after spending three weeks on the books to keep his eligibility.

"Mark is questionable to play Saturday because he has to regain his rhythm and conditioning," said Taylor, who will keep Jud Wood, a 6-3 sophomore, at Bayless' old guard spot.

Ohio State is being paced by 6-foot guard Larry Bolden, averaging 24 points a game, and 6-10 center Craig Taylor, putting in 18 points per start. Fred Poole, a 6-5 freshman forward and the fifth starter, averages eight points.

Vermont brings an all-lettermen starting five to Ohio State. Warren Prehmus, a 6-2 forward, leads the Catamount scorers with a 16.5 average while 6-3 guard Mark Cubit hits at a 15.5 clip.

"Vermont makes it a 94-foot game. They press a great deal," said Taylor.

The other Catamount starters in a 77-73 victory over St. Michael's Tuesday night were 6-7 Ron Gottschalk, 6-4 Mark Sobolewski and 6-7 Charlie Trapani.

All were vital cogs in Vermont's 16-10 performance last year, the best in the school's history.

Another big game in Ohio Saturday matches unbeaten host Cincinnati, ninth ranked nationally this week, with Bowling Green, off to a 2-1 sluggish start.

Dayton visits powerful Michigan while Ohio University goes to Pittsburgh.

Kent State and Xavier, two more of Ohio's major teams, are involved in the Marshall Invitational Tournament Friday and Saturday. Kent State draws Fordham while Xavier takes on Marshall in first round games tonight.

The Hoosier-Buckeye Conference has a busy card Saturday with Wilmington going to Earlham, Defiance to Manchester and Hanover to Findlay.

The lone Mid-Ohio Conference contest sends Mount Vernon Nazarene to Ohio Dominican.

Hoosiers squeak past Irish, 63-60

By The Associated Press

Indiana's Quinn Buckner blew a pair of free throws with 23 seconds remaining but banged in two others with 11 seconds to go and salted away a 63-60 victory for the top-ranked Hoosiers over No. 8 Notre Dame.

In the only other match Thursday night involving a Big Ten team, Illinois was stunned 75-73 by Furman, also in a final-seconds squeaker. The results left conference squads 28-8 against non-conference opponents so far this season.

Indiana pulled out to a 14-point lead but Notre Dame's All-American Adrian Dantley and freshman Bruce Flowers went to work and narrowed the margin to 61-60 before Buckner's free throws iced the game.

The victory, third in a row for the Hoosiers, avenged Indiana's only home loss in the past three years. Notre Dame fell to 4-1 for the season.

The Hoosiers stretched their lead to 51-37 midway through the final period after a close first half.

All-American Scott May, who led all scorers with 25 points, then picked up two quick fouls and left the game for a costly minute and a half. At that point, Notre Dame had closed within three at 53-50. Flowers, a 6-foot-8 forward, hit all nine of his game points in that stretch.

Dantley, a 6-foot-5 forward, hit 10 points in the second half and finished with 19. Buckner, after a slow start, wound up with 16.

At Greenville, S.C., the Fighting Illini held a 72-68 advantage with 4:46 left but failed to score again until center Mike Washington hit the front end of a one-and-one with 11 seconds to go.

Furman, which had pulled even, then set up a two-seconds-to-go jump shot from 20 feet by forward Craig Lynch to pull it out for the Paladins of the Southern Conference.

It was Furman's first win of the season after three losses, while Illinois dropped its first game after five victories. Furman led 43-40 at the half.

Illinois' Audi Matthews was high scorer for the game with 25 points, while teammate Rich Adams had 22. Both hit 11 of 14 from the field.

Furman's Ray Miller had 24 to lead his team.

In the only match involving a Big Ten team tonight, Iowa takes on Iowa State.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Rutgers whipped Penn 95-80; Manhattan nipped LaSalle 79-78; Davidson nudged Baylor 88-86; Villanova routed Kings (Pa.) College 108-75; Providence walloped Evanston 98-71; Furman stopped Illinois 75-73; Kansas turned back Boise State 61-56; TCU trimmed Pan American 77-76; Georgia defeated Appalachian State 83-67; Arkansas State beat Tennessee Tech 75-74; West Texas outscored Oklahoma State 63-62 and South Alabama defeated Centenary 74-72.

FRIENDLY COMPUTER MATCHES PEN PALS

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A computer here specializes in forming friendships between youngsters in this country and abroad.

The computer is at the "Big Blue Marble" Pen Pal center. So far it has handled more than 150,000 letters from boys and girls aged 8 to 15, from this country, Canada, Latin America, Europe and the Far East, matching each writer with another of similar age and interests in another country.

The "Dear Pen Pal" segment is a regular "Big Blue Marble" feature of the award-winning international children's television series. The series, presented as a public service on 120 stations by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., seeks to encourage international understanding and an awareness of other youngsters' needs.

In 1836, Texans wanted more than tacos from Mexico. They wanted their independence.

And they got it. But once a republic, the next step was statehood. So the American government issued a five-percent stock to help pay for the annexation. And the citizens welcomed their new neighbors by quickly buying up the stock.

Today, Americans still help their country grow by buying United States Savings Bonds—at banks and through the Payroll Savings Plan at work.

And while they help their country, they help themselves to safe, dependable savings.

Take stock in America with United States Savings Bonds.

You just can't buy a better country.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. Write for details. Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Gout Is Complex Disorder

Why would there be a sudden flareup of gout in a person who had one attack many years ago and seemed to be free of it ever since?

Mr. J. I., Penn.

Dear Mr. I.:

Gout is a disturbance in the production of uric acid and its accumulation in the blood.

It is well known that recurrence of attacks of painful gout may occur at unexpected intervals and for unknown reasons.

Many people do stay in good health, free of pain, with a simple restricted diet and with the continued use of the anti-gout medicines that are now available.

Some people who are free of symptoms may suddenly, without any apparent reason, develop swelling and pain in the joints of the legs, the feet, the shoulders or the hands. Even those who take sustained doses of medicine may, with overindulgence in alcohol or, following an infection, induce the onset of gout.

Gout is a very complex disorder. It affects many organs of the body. Most people who have this condition are told that they must maintain restricted diets and continue to take their anti-gout medicine.

Frequently, when no symptoms are present for many months there is a temptation to get careless with the regularity of taking the anti-gout drugs. This may be the reason why, after such a long interval, a recurrence takes place.

It is simple to take a blood test. This quickly shows whether or not the uric acid content is high in the blood and if more active forms of treatment are necessary.

New NAM chief termed early success

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — When he was a young man, Richard Kautz of Muscatine, Iowa, said "I didn't particularly have a great admiration for business as a proposition, although I did have for individual business people."

Today, head of a huge but closely held corporation that he helped found in 1943 at the age of 27, Kautz is the newly elected chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers.

He concedes that his early attitude was one common among young people, perhaps because of educational experiences, perhaps simply because of youth. "Life is a constant learning process," Kautz said in an interview.

The attitudes of businessmen, he suggested, are developed from their individual experiences, from their knowledge of the risks involved, from their marketing experiences, rather than from rigid adherence to doctrinaire philosophies.

Under his leadership, which begins today and runs for one year, the NAM intends to continue what he maintains has been its aim for the past few years — "to take a positive position rather than a reacting-against-everything role." Not that anyone in the NAM ever admits they played such a role, but that, they concede, has been their image among many people. It is an image they seek to lose.

"This is a pluralistic society," Kautz said. "We're not always going to look good for that reason and we'll have friction and abrasion. But that is strength. I have great belief in the judgment of the American people. I trust them."

Kautz claims not to understand the meaning of the word "establishment," suggesting that nothing in business is so certain as to be established — that NAM members must be innovative, imaginative, competitive or go out of business, as he says some do each year.

Kautz succeeds another Midwesterner, David B. Meeker, president of the Hobart Co. of Troy, Ohio, a manufacturer of a wide variety of machinery for homes, restaurants and factories, much of it associated with food processing.

Kautz' company, Grain Processing Corp., also is heavily involved with food, and more directly. The company, of which he is chairman, is in the "agribusiness," beginning with the processing of corn and grains mechanically and chemically.

It is enormously varied but integrated, making starches, sweeteners, vitamins, enzymes, soybean protein concentrates, livestock and poultry feeds, and hybrid seeds. It is the nation's largest independent producer of grain neutral spirits.

Israeli Arabs resist pressure

By MARCUS ELIASON
Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM (AP) — The 600 Israeli Arabs studying at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem have balked at an order to help guard the campus against Arab terrorist attacks.

Their refusal to watch over dormitories is symptomatic of a dilemma among the 500,000 Arabs of Israel — Palestinians who chose to be part of the Jewish state that came into being in 1948, rather than become refugees.

The university controversy, which has sparked demonstrations and sporadic violence, puts into focus the problem of dual loyalty faced by Israel's Palestinians.

"We should not be asked to do this," says Nadir Gegaissy, a 24-year-old law student who speaks for the Arab group. "Our situation is too delicate for us to be subjected to such risks."

The university administration has threatened to evict them from the dormitories, which they share with 6,000 Jewish students. The Arabs have offered to perform any alternative duty, even to swab floors, rather than stand guard.

The issue has been made more ticklish because of the recent United Nations resolution branding Zionism, the movement that brought about a Jewish homeland in the Middle East, as racist.

Some Jewish students claim that extremists among the Arabs have seized upon the security problem as a weapon with which to embarrass the Israelis. "They want to be evicted so they can say the U.N. was right in calling Zionism a form of racism," argues one student.

The guard duty amounts to a two-hour vigil for every 40 days in the company of an armed Jewish student. The Arabs would be unarmed.

The Arabs point out that Israel does not draft them into the army because of the dual-loyalty problem and they ask why they should be forced to perform guard duty.

"Living in the dormitories is a privilege for both Jews and Arabs," replies David Asulin, 27, of the campus student union which is demanding the Arabs do guard duty. "If a bomb explodes, is it going to discriminate between Jews and Arabs?"

Abraham Harman, president of Hebrew University, says: "Guard duty is a necessary nuisance. But we're not asking any Arab to point a machine gun at Syria or Lebanon.

"If anyone, Jew or Arab, feels it is against his conscience to report a timebomb to the police, then he shouldn't be allowed on the campus."

Many Israeli Arabs feel they will always be outcasts by the very definition of Zionism — to build a Jewish state with a Jewish majority and Jewish government.

Top Watergate figures still free

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly a year after their convictions in the Watergate cover-up trial, H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John N. Mitchell have not seen the inside of a prison. And they're not likely to in the near future.

Whether they ever serve their 2½-to 8-year sentences is up to the U.S. Court of Appeals for now. No matter what the outcome there, the U.S. Supreme Court will be asked for a final decision.

If the appeals court upholds the terms set by U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica it may well order the sentences to begin. Rarely are defendants granted stays while the Supreme Court hears their cases.

But appeals take time. The three men, along with Robert C. Mardian, were convicted last New Year's Day and sentenced Feb. 21. It was fall before their appeal briefs reached the six judges who will rule.

Oral arguments are set for Jan. 6, more than a year since the jury's guilty verdict and 21 months since indictments were brought.

While they await the outcome of their appeals, Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Mitchell have been writing books: Ehrlichman a novel; Mitchell, a work described by a friend as "non-Watergate"; and Haldeman, a book reportedly about his White House years, including Watergate.

The men have practically disappeared from public view.

Haldeman, who as Richard M. Nixon's chief of staff was one of the most powerful men in government, made news briefly in March when he gave a paid-for interview to CBS. The news was more in his fee — reported variously as $25,000, $50,000 and $100,000 — than in what he said.

In May, a federal court jury dismissed a $1-million suit against him stemming from his White House days. Haldeman refused to answer questions, citing his rights against self-incrimination.

Ehrlichman, second in influence only to Haldeman among the White House staff, left his Seattle home and became a near-recluse in Santa Fe, N.M., while he worked on "The Company," a novel about White House intrigue and blackmail. He insists it is all fiction.

He has granted few interviews but said in a recent deposition that Nixon personally ordered secret wiretap files moved to the White House for fear FBI director J. Edgar Hoover would use them for blackmail.

Mitchell, attorney general under Nixon and twice his campaign manager, returned to the spotlight briefly in October when he testified before the Senate intelligence committee. Despite the fact that testimony at the cover-up trial showed Nixon, Haldeman and Ehrlichman plotted to make him take the heat for Watergate, Mitchell has visited the former president, who is in near-exile in San Clemente, Calif.

Mardian, whose sentence on one count of conspiring to obstruct justice was 10 months to three years, has dropped out of the public gaze, working in the family heavy construction business in Phoenix.

Mitchell and many of the other lawyers convicted in the various Watergate-related prosecutions have been barred from practicing law.
